PLANS FOR BIG MEET DROPPED

Californian Prefers U. S. in League Rather than in Proposed Parley

IDAHO SENATOR HELD PROPAGANDISTS' TOOL

Scheme Would Irretrievably Embroil America With Europe, Claim

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—As a climax to a blistering session of the senate during which Senator Johnson, California, bitterly and sarcastically assailed Senator Borah and his proposal for a world economic conference, charging that the Idaho senator's plan was in the interest of international bankers, Borah late today announced that he would withdraw his amendment to the naval appropriation bill for such a conference.

Borah's announcement came after Senator Lodge had stated that adoption of Borah's amendment would be harmful to efforts which the administration was now making to ascertain whether it could be of aid in adjusting Europe's economic troubles.

Johnson in his speech earlier in the day declared that he would rather see the United States in the league of nations than in such a conference as Borah suggested.

Lodge's statement as to execution of Borah's plan placing in jeopardy the administration's efforts as to Europe followed a discussion which grew out of an announcement by Senator Watson, Indiana, that the administration had put forth feelers to foreign governments to learn in the United States could aid.

Borah pressed Watson for details. Watson said he did not know anything further but that he assumed the conversations now going on would lead to some sort of economic conference, if they led to anything.

McCormick, Illinois, then declared he knew positively that conversations had been carried on with a view to an economic conference at Brussels and that the United States was to be included.

Both the demands of Watson whether the amendment would embarrass President Harding's efforts to sound out European conditions, Watson said all he knew about this was what Mr. Harding said in his letter yesterday and he construed that to mean that the President would be embarrassed.

Lodge, in an effort to clear up the confusion created by the Watson and McCormick statements, told Borah that his administration had entered into conversations some time ago, that he did not know what point had been reached, not the present status of the conversations.

Borah asked him whether his amendment would embarrass the administration and Lodge replied that in his opinion it would. Borah thereupon announced his determination to withdraw the amendment.

Forecast U. S. Courts In Drive to Clean Up Rum Case Congestion

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—An intensive drive by the federal courts to clean up the present congestion of liquor cases with the view of making convictions keep pace with arrests, probably will come out of the conferences now being held here between Chief Justice Taft, Attorney General Daugherty and federal circuit judges.

As the first move in the campaign, President Harding has begun to fill the twenty-one district judgeships which are now vacant. Most of these vacancies are among the twenty-four additional judges created by congress last summer especially to handle liquor cases. Three new judges were named yesterday.

If the federal courts can balance their dockets to the point where they can handle prohibition cases as rapidly as other classes of work, it is felt here that the result would be stricter enforcement of the dry laws and more severe penalties for violators.

SWISS GRINS AT QUERY AS TO WEDDING

Asserted Fiance of Mrs. McCormick Also Blushes at Question Concerning Rumor of Marriage.

CHICAGO, Dec. 29.—All Chicago society today awaited word of the marriage of Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick and Edward Krenn, Swiss architect.

Mrs. McCormick, asked when the much discussed marriage would take place, replied hotly: "It is none of your business."

"I will make no statement now—or ever."

Krenn only blushes and grins.

REVEAL U. S. AS WORRY PARLEY MOVE LEADER

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—The American government plans an international conference of economic and financial experts to settle the German reparations problem, it was stated on high authority at the White House today. This conference would be participated in by the United States, but it is not contemplated that it be called in Washington.

The government has already informally approached the other nations concerned as to whether such a conference would be agreeable to them. As the result of these informal negotiations, developments may come within a few days.

The plan is, however, that the members of the conference not be bound by any political instructions from their foreign office after they have been selected by their respective governments.

The conference would make an exhaustive inquiry into the reparations problem which this government considers the key to the solution of the critical situation facing Europe today.

The conference, which would be composed of the leading financial experts of the countries concerned, would seek to agree on a German reparations figure that would be up to the limit of that country's ability to pay—but not beyond. The government considers it impossible for Germany to pay the present figure of 132,000,000 gold marks.

The experts would then submit a joint recommendation to their respective governments which might hold a political conference to put the recommendation in effect.

WAR DANGER IN EUROPE CRITICAL

Peace or Strife Decision Declared to Rest With Moslems

LONDON, Dec. 29.—Europe today stood at the crossroads, one path leading to war in the Near East, the other to peace.

The Lausanne conference was suspended while Ismet Pasha, chief of the Turkish delegation, prepared a reply to the allied demand that the Turks permit international courts at which cases involving foreigners would be tried.

There was an obvious effort on the part of the allies to make it appear that Turkish obstinacy on this point was responsible for the impending disruption of the conference, while Ismet desired the world to believe that British greed for the rich Mosul oil basin in Mesopotamia is the real reason. Ismet's reply will probably try to throw the blame on Britain.

Meanwhile, the British cabinet met, ostensibly to discuss reparations, but the question of hostilities in the Near East probably was taken up also.

Believe War Inevitable
Reports from Athens said Greece believed renewed war with the Turks inevitable.

Former Premier Venizelos, envisioning a breakdown of the Lausanne conference, has telegraphed the Greek revolutionary government urging that reinforcements be rushed to the Greek army in Thrace and that the 1920 and 1922 military clauses be called to the colors, the Express correspondent cabled.

Venizelos declared that the entire Greek army should be sent to Thrace, leaving only one regiment in Athens. The same advice report that General Pangalos, Greek commander in Thrace, has entrained secretly for Saloniki.

British pictures the Lausanne parley as on the verge of an unavoidable break. Naval policies were understood to be under discussion, following the hurried orders to the Mediterranean fleet to proceed to the Straits.

FINAL DECISION RESTS WITH MOSLEMS

LAUSANNE, Dec. 29.—Final decision as to peace or war in the Near East rested with the Turks today. The conference stood virtually suspended, waiting for word from Ismet Pasha.

The Turk delegate had a few days in which to reply to allied insistence that mixed tribunals and judicial guarantees replace capitulations. If he made final, formal rejection of the demand, it would mean the immediate end of the peace conference, delegates declared.

Meanwhile the British were reported making preparations to meet an open break with a return to armed watchfulness at the Straits. A British fleet, led by the Iron Duke, was reported under full steam for the Dardanelles.

The conference having become a struggle between British and Turks to shift the blame on each other for the break, now regarded as inevitable, the former have won the backing of all other delegations except the Russians. The United States supported the allied demands for judicial guarantees; France, Japan and Italy stood with Great Britain in the matter of capitulations.

FACES COURT IN L. A. IN 98TH PROSECUTION

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 29.—W. T. "Catfish" Simpson, negro sponge fisherman and lobster catcher at Catalina Island, today appeared in Judge Shenk's court for his 98th prosecution for failure to provide for his wife and an uncertain number of children.

Simpson has spent a good part of the past five years in jail. "That woman has sworn out so many complaints against me that I've lost track of them," he told Deputy Prosecutor Scott today.

French Propose Making Parley Effective Sans Further Step by Harding

PARIS, Dec. 29.—France today through semi-official channels advanced a suggestion whereby the proposal that President Harding call a world economic conference can be given effect without the American president taking any further initiative.

It was pointed out that the plan of Senator Borah apparently is identical with the allied plan for a financial conference at Brussels next month, to which the United States has been invited.

The Brussels conference, the French say, presents an unequalled opportunity for the United States to make its voice heard in a world economic gathering.

DEATH PLANS FOR COUPLE GO FORWARD

London Authorities Proceed With Execution Project Despite Receipt of Million Protests.

LONDON, Dec. 29.—Preparations to execute Mrs. Edith Thompson January 9 and Frederick Bywaters the following day were tentatively begun by officials today, despite pending appeals before the home secretary.

Mrs. Thompson and Bywaters, alleged affiliates, were condemned to death in Old Bailey court for the murder of the woman's husband, Percy Thompson. Evidence showed they plotted his death by slow poisoning and finally stabbed him to death so they would be free to marry.

At the home office it was said that no action would be taken on the appeal, which is accompanied by petitions for clemency bearing a million signatures, this week. Mrs. Thompson's principal plea is that she is about to become a mother.

FORECAST VAST PROSPERITY FOR U. S.

(United Press Leased Wire)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 29.—With an optimism firmly based on a year of virile industrialism and mechanical achievement, the federal reserve board and the department of commerce, in year-end analyses and forecasts of the nation's business, today united in predicting greater prosperity for American business in 1923.

Despite unsettled economic conditions abroad and difficulties in many domestic industries, both government agencies see for American business a steady upward swing.

The federal government, with a reduction of the total interest bearing debt of the country of $667,000,000 in the twelve months ending December 31, blazed the way toward fiscal solidarity for the country's economic structure, the department of commerce claimed.

Production Increases
Production in basic industries is increasing, contrary to the general rule at this time of the year, the reserve board stated. Textile mills were 20 per cent more active this year than last; iron and steel production increased from 60 to 70 per cent; petroleum 15 per cent; coke 40 per cent; paper from 20 to 30 per cent; rubber 40 per cent; automobiles 50 per cent; building construction 50 per cent; lumber 35 per cent; brick 50 per cent; leather 25 per cent; sugar 40 per cent. Outstanding declines were seven per cent in bituminous and 47 per cent in anthracite coal, due to the strikes.

Despite wide pessimism over the plight of the farmer, agricultural values for 1922 exceeded by 25 per cent the value of the 1921 crop, according to the board. Crop values were only 17 per cent less than the record breaking total of 1920.

GAS HELD TO BLAME FOR TRAGEDY

Believe Sugar Co. Employees Lighted Heater Before Opening Window

Deadly monoxide gas today was held responsible for the death last night of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Dyer, employees of the Los Alamitos Sugar company, at Los Alamitos. The bodies were found this morning in a room in the house occupied by the couple. Dyer was 40 years of age and his wife 39, according to an official of the company.

Mrs. Dyer had been cooking for men employed at the factory. When the employees went to the clubhouse this morning for breakfast they found the house closed. Investigation resulted in the finding of the bodies in bed.

According to a statement issued at the factory, Mr. and Mrs. Dyer, who had been employed by the company for about a month, were off duty yesterday.

It is believed they returned to the clubhouse about 8:30 o'clock last night. Mr. and Mrs. Dyer apparently lighted the gas heating stove without taking the precaution of opening one or more of the windows.

A physician called from Artesia immediately following discovery of the bodies pronounced death due to asphyxiation.

Officials of the sugar company at once began an investigation to locate relatives of the couple. So far as is known, the couple had no children, officials said.

Coroner C. D. Brown was making an investigation of the circumstances of the death.

'Prohibition' Misnomer Says British Pastor Here to Make Dry Probe

DENVER, Colo., Dec. 29.—The Rev. Wilson Stuart of Birmingham, England, in the United States to investigate prohibition, will not even refer to it by that name.

After finding liquor plentiful in half a dozen Eastern cities and in Denver, he is convinced that prohibition is a misnomer. He refers only to our "move for prohibition" or "cutting down of the liquor traffic."

Stuart, an intimate friend of "Pussyfoot" Johnson, shook his head sadly here today as he remarked on prohibition in America. "But I find much more personal and business efficiency here than in England. Prohibition has failed to make America dry, but it has not failed to benefit it," he said.

MEX. ARREST DEPUTY FROM SAN DIEGO

Officer Seized as He and One Other Escort Beaten American Girl Toward U. S. Line

SAN DIEGO, Dec. 29.—Frank Stein, deputy sheriff, was held in jail at Tia Juana today, Sheriff James C. Byers announced. With F. A. Markley, deputy customs officer at the line, Stein was arrested by Mexican police while they were escorting an American girl to the line from the town of Tia Juana. The girl had been badly beaten, the arresting officers said, and friends asked that they take her across the line. En route to the line they were surrounded and arrested. Markley was held all night and released this morning.

Stein is stationed at the line to search automobiles returning from Mexico, and is known to hundreds who have visited below the border.

Officials here were prepared to demand an immediate release of Stein, who is believed to be held either on a charge of kidnapping or carrying concealed weapons.

The girl was not permitted to cross into the United States, it was said.

TELL NEED FOR CITY FUNDS

Extensions of Fire, Water System Here Vitrally Required, Claim

FOUR ELECTIONS IN NEAR FUTURE LOOM

Vast Expansion of County Seat In Year Makes Moves Necessary

Indications here today pointed to the electors of Santa Ana being called to the polls four times before the term of office of the present city council expires next April.

One of the elections probably will be to vote bonds in the amount of approximately $250,000 for extension of water mains and improvements in the department, and for added fire protection.

The first of the elections will be held January 9, when freeholders to frame a charter will be elected. Later, approval of the charter will be placed before the voters. The final election will come in the selection, in April, of a city council and city officers.

It became known today that the council in executive sessions has been discussing a bond issue for the water and fire services. Councilman Charles H. Chapman, water commissioner, and Walter Wray, superintendent of the water department, today had decided to bring to a head the issue of more funds for water extensions. The decision was reached yesterday at a long conference between the two.

Tells Crisis
"The program of paving, building and subdivisions in the past year has exhausted the funds of the water department for extension work," declared Chapman. "We are confronted with the situation of where we will have to stand in the way of development if ways and means are not developed for meeting the increasing demands on the department."

"Paving of streets, particularly of old streets, requires the replacing of water mains that have been in service for many years. It means replacement of two-inch lines with four-inch lines—the large mains are necessary to give adequate service."

"New subdivisions must be provided with water. Water is essential to their development and their development is essential to the continued expansion of residence and business districts and increase in population. In my opinion, the department should have a fund of not less than $150,000 to take care of the present and immediate future requirements of the growing city."

$75,000 Fire Bonds Urged
Councilman H. H. Dale was prepared today to recommend to his colleagues an issue of approximately $75,000 in bonds for rebuilding the present fire alarm system and for the establishment of two auxiliary fire departments, one in the east end and the other in the west end of the city.

Dale pointed to the report filed with the city council last Tuesday evening by an inspector of the railroad commission, in which it was asserted that in the present fire alarm system there were 145 violations of the state law governing installation of such equipment, twenty-nine of which were hazardous. He said the system was antiquated, and while operative, was far from satisfactory. He said that there was continual expense in its maintenance. It was estimated that it would cost more than $1200 to make repairs recommended by the state inspector.

Says Fire Peril Great
"Santa Ana has been growing very rapidly in the past two years, with the result that there have been big developments in both the east and west sections of the city," said Dale. "These districts, and particularly the industrial section in the east section, should have better fire protection. That protection can be given only by establishment of equipment and fire houses in the districts."

"No one who is at all familiar with the present fire alarm system will deny that it is entirely inadequate. It was constructed about eighteen years ago, when the population of the city was less than 5000. It is obsolete. In the opinion of F. J. Waller, city electrician, and John Luxembourger, fire chief, it would cost around $25,000 to install an up-to-date system."

GOTHAM'S COAL SUPPLY DWINDLES AS GALE RAGES
NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—New York's coal supply dwindled to a two days' supply as a blizzard howled over the city today.

Fuel administration officials estimated the reserve tonnage undelivered to dealers at 61,500 tons. Hundreds of tenements reported only a few days' supply on hand.

One man was killed and another injured in accidents during the storm here. The hurricane that blew in from the sea wrecked two schooners on Long Island sound.

DISMISS ACTION AGAINST BURNS

JOHNSON FLAYS BORAH WORLD MEET PLAN

of propagandists and of the international bankers, and used Borah's own words to convict him of now favoring American embroilment in Europe.

Sees U. S. Embroiled

"I am against the Borah amendment for precisely the same reason I was against taking the United States into the league of nations," said Johnson. "I am against it because, in my opinion, it will do exactly what thus far we have declined to do. I am against it because, in greater degree and with less safeguards than the league of nations gave us, it will embroil us in Europe's controversies, and finally make the United States, after 150 years, a part of the European system. I am against it, with either resolutions or amendments, for I have been unable to conceive either amendment or reservation, which, leaving the design, would avert the possible injurious consequences."

Advocates of the amendment, Johnson charged, "arrogate to themselves all the world's idealism and sympathy" and, taking the pose of "superior beings, demand, upon the pain of their denial of idealism and altruism to the rest of the United States, that we follow whatever course they may mark. We decline to enter into Europe's maelstrom without definite and cogent reasons, upon the mere arrogation of a superior charity, benevolence and altruism by those who would take us in, or because of the denunciation of those who will not blindly accept and follow any suggested course."

Says U. S. Hands are Tied
Borah's plan, Johnson said, provides, not only for consideration of every world economic problem, but distinctly directs that understandings and arrangements of a political nature be arrived at. It would be impossible to keep political questions out of the conference, he said. Furthermore, it would be up to the United States as the nation calling the parley, to join in its agreements and later to see to it that they became operative. Good faith would prohibit any other course, he asserted.

"I am well within the fact when I say that the economic problems of the world are inextricably commingled today with its political problems," said Johnson. "It is an utter and absolute impossibility to arrive at a definite solution of the economic problems of the world without solving at the same time some of its political ills. Let us make no mistake, therefore, about what it means, according to its terms. It means that every ill that Europe now is suffering from every problem there existing, every dismal situation, every wrong and injustice, shall be brought to the city of Washington at our request, at our instance, and upon our invitation, for solution, and that we undertake thereafter, because we are the leaders in the movement whatever is essential, to re-write Europe's present story."

Favors League Instead
"If the language of the amendment does not mean exactly this thing, it can mean nothing at all. I have not heard its advocates here, and I have not read its newspaper advocates outside this chamber, designate what they expect to be accomplished by the conference, nor indicate the specific economic subjects with which it will deal."

"I prefer a league of nations with some rules of procedure, with the members bound by some preliminary agreement, to this general omnibus endeavor, which has neither limitations nor specifications."

"Following to its logical conclusion the proposal for this conference, we must choose either the alternative of arousing false hopes and doing incalculable harm, or of entering upon a course far removed from what is merely financial and which may jeopardize our future; and which if once entered upon may make us a part of Europe's future political controversies."

"We are told that if we do not intervene economically in Europe we will have to intervene in war there. I deny it. If we intervene economically (whatever that may mean) we will be in the midst of Europe's turmoil and may possibly be involved in Europe's wars. But to say that without the conference we will be involved in some future European war, I think, is a bit extravagant."

Sees Farmer as Victim
"The bait is held before our farmers that they will prosper if we will but confer on Europe's reconstruction but the farmers have not been told the only reconstruction suggested involves us for generations in Europe's controversies. Add the farmer? Not so. Add the international bankers? Yes. And the farmer will pay the price."

The international bankers, Johnson said, want the United States either to take over Europe's troubles under an economic conference, or by writing in some way the reparations settlement. He said the Borah plan was part of the bankers' general scheme and warned that their hope of future financial aid by the United States government to Europe was "an iridescent dream."

CALIFORNIA PORTS WARNED OF COMING OF WEALTHY SLACKER

LONG BEACH, Dec. 29.—Search for Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, millionaire draft evader who is reported en route to the United States from his refuge in Germany is being carried on at the Los Angeles harbor by department of justice officials. The beach here and at Alamitos bay is also guarded.

Bergdoll is said to have left Germany on a steamer bound for the California coast. All foreign vessels are being searched to prevent Bergdoll landing at San Pedro or Wilmington. He is known to have friends in Southern California and government officers anticipate that a landing will be attempted in this section.

Bergdoll escaped from army guards in May, 1920 at his home in Philadelphia while being taken to search for a pot of gold which he declared he had hidden in the mountains of Virginia.

COMMENT

BY Chester H. Rowell

Wright act went into effect. "Nothing doing," said the chief. They understood that language and obeyed. "The tendency," says a news account, "is to be careful until the extent of police enforcement is determined."

And there is the exact secret of the enforcement of this or any other requirement on the underworld. Its members will obey orders. They will not obey laws. There is no law so impervious that they will not seek a way to wiggle through it. But they will obey orders. And they require no Supreme Court to interpret those orders. When the chief says "Nothing doing," it may be beyond the ingenuity of the court to define what that means. And the underworld knows. And it obeys just as long as it thinks the chief means it.

That is the crux. The chief always does mean it the first day. So he is always obeyed the first day. A good chief means it permanently. But the underworld never believes that until it is demonstrated by experience. The assumption always is that it will "blow over." So, like other underground creatures frightened by their holes, they sneak back, one at a time.

If nothing happens, they are soon all back. If the word still comes "Nothing doing," they try it out, to see whether it is really meant.

If they find they can get what they want by paying for it, they pay. If it is still "Nothing doing," and if it keeps on until they are really convinced that it is really meant—then, finally, they surrender, and seek other occupations.

The Wright law, as a law, is a good law. But is not as a law that it will be enforced, especially in the city underworlds. It is by orders. The Wright law is a page long, and it adopts the Volstead law, which is many pages long. But its practical importance is that it enables the chief to issue orders. He needs only two words, "Nothing doing"—plus the slow, hard task of convincing the underworld that he really means these two words, and that he will keep on meaning them.

CHICAGO, Dec. 29.—Increased international circulation of Mexican and Canadian papers brought about the discovery that bootleggers have been shipping brandy and whiskey in ten ounce tubes wrapped in the papers, according to federal officials.

BANKER NAMED FOR HANDLING CONTROVERSY

By stipulation of attorneys, an action by which Elmer B. Burns appeared in court to answer charges of failure to deliver property belonging to his sister-in-law, Mrs. Walter Schofield, nee Ethel French, heiress, brought by the Orange County Trust and Savings Bank, guardians of the estate, was dismissed so far as it concerned Burns by Superior Judge R. L. Williams before whom Burns appeared today.

A similar citation against Mrs. Emma L. French, mother of Mrs. Schofield, was continued, while U. D. Rhodes, trust official for the bank, was appointed referee to determine upon a settlement.

Attorney Clyde Bishop represented the Orange County Trust and Savings Bank. Attorney H. J. Forgy appeared for Mrs. French and Attorney L. A. West for Burns. The citation had asserted that the bank, on December 9, made a written demand on Mrs. French to deliver into its possession all the property of Mrs. Schofield, but that "she refused and declined to do so."

The citation continued that "the guardian believes that Emma French and Elmer Burns are endeavoring to conceal from the court and the guardian all the property, estate and effects of Ethel Schofield."

Before the case came into court it was shown that Burns has not now and has never had control or possession of any portion of Mrs. Schofield's property. So the action against him was dropped.

Attention was first drawn to the financial affairs of Mrs. Schofield, when her mother filed a petition for the appointment of a guardian over her person and her property. After extended argument, during which Schofield arose in defense of his bride-to-be, Judge Williams appointed the trust and savings bank guardian over the estate, but left Miss French free personally.

In opposition to the apparent wishes of her mother and relatives, the woman was married to Schofield several weeks later.

Mrs. French has been ill since the hearing on the guardianship matter as a result of a fall on the courthouse steps. She was unable to be in court today. Her condition continues serious.

It is understood that whatever property that belongs to Mrs. Schofield will be turned over to the bank by Mrs. French without further proceedings in court.

FUND TO BRING TOT TO CALIF. NOW $38

The little 8-year-old daughter of E. L. Wills, county jail inhabitant, who was homeless, without friends, clothes or money, at Homer, La., will rejoin her mother here soon.

That was assured today, when, in response to a plea yesterday, prisoners at the county jail, sheriff's office men, jailers and numerous other persons in Santa Ana subscribed the major portion of the $50 needed to pay the child's fare to this city.

When Wills was arrested and extradited from Louisiana, he had only enough money to bring his wife with him. She has been working here, but all her funds were required to pay the attorney who is defending Wills on embezzlement charges.

The little lass was left with persons at Homer who promised to care for her. Two days ago Wills received word that the child had been turned into the street, with no one to provide for her.

His fellows in the jail immediately started a fund. Jailer Theo Lacy and his assistants added to it. A story in the Register brought forth more offers of assistance. Today the goal of $50, necessary to provide the girl with carfare to this city, where she might again be in the care of a mother, was in sight.

Any persons desiring to aid in this mission of kindness were requested to leave contributions with jail officials, at the sheriff's office, or in The Register News room.

Following is the list of gifts received up to noon today:

PHONE 'CHANGE SHIFT DUE AT NEWPORT

NEWPORT BEACH, Dec. 29.—Materials for the new telephone switchboard to be installed in the Newport Beach exchange of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company were on the ground today, and Earl S. Morrow, district manager, declared that work of installation would begin next Monday.

"Our plans for Newport Beach entail an extensive rearrangement of our exchange system," he said. "Complete new central office equipment is to be installed and much new work is being done in connection with our outside plant."

"The telephone company is spending a large amount of money in playing its part in the upbuilding of this community."

"Few persons," continued Morrow, "appreciate the immense amount of work involved in keeping pace with the constantly increasing telephone demands. Back of each telephone are many things—wires, cables, poles, conductors, buildings. In the central office are switchboards and other apparatus, all associated with the telephones placed in the offices and homes of our patrons. This equipment enables us to connect one telephone with any other in the exchange for local service, and throughout the country when long distance service is desired. As telephones are added this equipment must be expanded to meet the increased demand."

"All this requires our engineers to constantly study the probable development of the cities served by the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company and make the necessary preparations to not only keep pace with the growth in population, but to keep ahead of the demand for telephone service."

INSANITY CASE AGAINST VET DROPPED

John Conrad, 32, a Civil War veteran, fought a battle to remain with his blind wife, who is utterly dependent upon him, and won.

Insanity charges against him, brought by W. T. Townshend, a neighbor at 323 South Philadelphia street, Anaheim, where the aged couple had been living, were dismissed when physicians found him sane.

Superior Judge Z. B. West ordered the aged couple to the Orange county hospital, where they will be provided with a little cottage, surrounded by flowers, at a nominal cost.

"Don't separate me from my wife," Conrad pleaded. "She is absolutely dependent upon me. I am her eyes. She can't see, and can't hear very well."

"If you send my husband away, send me with him," the little woman sobbed. "I couldn't get along without him."

The complainant in the case failed to contribute any convincing testimony. Several attorneys, listening to the proceedings, volunteered their services, should any be necessary.

Conrad was kept at the county hospital last night; his wife spent the night with friends in Anaheim. Their reunion this morning was touching, their gratitude at the dismissal of the charges profuse.

Conrad "was with Bill Sherman in his last battle," he told the court.

Newberry, proprietor of the Exchange cafe, were arrested this morning by Chief of Police Jack Tinsley and charged with failure properly to observe the city regulations regarding the disposition of garbage. The men were released without bond to appear this afternoon before Justice Warner for trial. It is said the penalty for conviction under the ordinance carries a fine and jail sentence.

OFFICERS TAKE BIG STILL IN BOOZE RAID

A galvanized iron still, said to be capable of manufacturing bootleg poison sufficient to maim or kill several men, was seized in a raid at San Juan Capistrano, when Manuel Gonzales was arrested by Motorcycle Officers O. K. Carr, Vernon Meyers and Henry Warner.

Gonzales was arraigned before Justice J. B. Cox this morning, on charges of manufacturing intoxicating liquor. He pleaded not guilty, and his case was set for February 14. He failed to furnish $300 bail.

While the officers were conducting the raid, they picked up Apollinar Chico, and arrested him on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon. He pleaded guilty and was sentenced to serve 60 days in the county jail.

Three galvanized iron cans, used, authorities declare, in the manufacture of illicit liquor, were seized by the officers. Galvanized iron produces a poison in moonshine whiskey, officers declared. So far as was known, no fatalities had resulted from the sale or drinking of the fluid.

The Next Sunday School Lesson

By CAL OGBURN
PRACTICAL NOTES ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Lesson for Dec. 31. Review.

Almost two thousand years look back to the time when a man and a woman, regarded by the Pharisees and Sadducees as of low caste, became the parents of a child that was destined to be the most useful and noted person in all history. According to the record, an angel said, before the child's birth, that his name should be Jesus, because he would save his people from their sins. Whatever stress may be justly laid on this office of Jesus on account of his victorious suffering and death, it is more than probable that too little emphasis has been placed on the saving efficacy of his teaching and example. This is clearly brought out in the lessons of the quarter, where he is seen to be a Savior by being both a teacher and an exemplar. This is a phase of his many-sided character that needs much more consideration today than it is receiving. And this is not to disparage the atonement.

Jesus showed men how to live without falling into sin—that is, great sin; habitual sin. Whoever will guide his life by the Golden Rule—Luke 6:31—will not have many sins toward his fellow-men for which to answer. He will not much need the "atonement" of Jesus here, either by reason of sins of omission or of commission. And Jesus showed by parable and illustration, as well as by his example, just how this "Rule" was to be put into practice. Thus he would save people from sinning, and not—as generally understood—from their sins. It is infinitely better to be saved from doing wrong than it is to be saved from doing wrong. To be saved from doing wrong is not only to prevent the transgression and the consequent injury to another, but it is also to be saved from regret, and often from remorse that knows no ending. How much better then to be "saved" before than after some great offense has been committed.

To be saved from sinning is also to be saved to usefulness, and, according to the quarter's lesson, saved through usefulness. Thus the four men who brought the palsied man to Jesus, the Good Samaritan, and the seventy who went forth to heal the sick were saved. The salvation that results to "Abou Ben Adam," who unselfishly ministers to the unfortunate, leaves but little need for any "atonement" in respect to this phase of his relationship to the world. The brutal robbers, the haughty, hypocritical Pharisees, and the indifferent people to whom the seventy went and were not received, if they repented, might profit somewhat through the vicarious suffering of Jesus—"the just for the unjust"—but at what great cost both to themselves and to him. The gist of the lessons we have been studying is, "Salvation from sin through unselfish service." Such salvation is needed today.

Offers Pleasure
In Holiday Setting

The attractive home of Attorney and Mrs. S. M. Davis, 220 West Eighteenth street, offered rendezvous to a congenial group last night when Miss Laura Davis entertained members of the younger social set at an attractively appointed bridge party.

Holiday decorations and a profusion of holly wreaths and flaming poinsettias were eloquent of the Yuletide season. Four tables were utilized for bridge at which Mrs. Dexter Ball and Howard Hamlin proved winners and were each awarded a pretty gift. Consolidation gifts were made to Miss Violet Wiesseman and Charles Linwood.

At a late hour, Miss Davis, assisted by her mother, Mrs. Davis, served a daintily appointed supper of two courses, salads and sweets.
Guests present included Dr. and Mrs. Dexter Ball, Miss Virginia
Slippen and Miss Florence Pixley

Eastern Travelers On Flying Visit

A flying visit to Santa Ana which will be followed sometime in the early spring by a more leisurely one, was that of Mr. and Mrs. W.
Brown of New Jersey, who arrived yesterday and departed today after spending the night with the family of their son, Kensil M.
Brown, 725 Cypress street.

Mr. and Mrs. Brown arrived in Los Angeles harbor yesterday after having made the water trip via the Panama canal, from their eastern home. Mr. and Mrs. Kensil Brown with their small son, Kensil Jr., and Mrs. Brown's mother, Mrs.
Charles D. O'Connell, left at once for San Pedro to meet them.

After spending the night here,
the travelers departed this morning for San Francisco from where they will sail for Honolulu to spend the remainder of the winter.

Upon their return to the States,
probably in April, Mr. and Mrs.
Brown will tarry for several weeks in Santa Ana where they will be welcomed by the many friends

WOLF STRAYS INTO SUBURB OF CHICAGO
WHERE IT IS KILLED

CHICAGO, Dec. 28. — Residents of the effete East, who believe that civilization ends on the eastern slopes of the Alleghenies, will be interested in learning that A.
Brandt, a taxidermist, has just killed a wolf in a vacant lot across the street from his shop in Englewood.

This will serve to strengthen the belief in New York and elsewhere along the Atlantic coast that Chicagoans live behind barbed wire and usually go out and kill a bear or deer or an Indian before breakfast; that they wear buckskin clothing and carry rifles to and from church, granting any of them ever go to church.

Mr. Brandt does not attempt to explain how the wolf got into the city. Women in the neighborhood had been complaining for several days of some animal prowling around in their back yards, overturning garbage cans in search of foods. It is believed the wolf came down the shore line from the Michigan woods and fatally misunderstood the hospitality of Chicago.

Under an old state law, Mr.
Brandt is entitled to a bounty of $25 for the scalp of the wolf and the law also awards the skin to him. At the present price for wolf skin furs, the latter item is not to be sneezed at.

FIELD PREDICTS BIG YEAR
CHICAGO, Dec. 29. — John G.
Shedd, president of Marshall Field and company, tonight in a speech to salesmen declared present business conditions sound, and predicted a year of "advancing prosperity" for the United States in 1923 if "theoretical legislation" were not allowed to interfere with present conditions.

Prove Attractive
To Santa Anans

Entering fully into the carnival spirit for the New Years "danc-carnival" which St. Ann's Inn will present Saturday night, Santa Ana's social elite was today making innumerable reservations for the affair which is expected to be one of the most brilliant dancing parties of the holiday season.

Plans as arranged by G. A.
Schweizer, manager of the Inn, include the presence of Chapman's seven-piece orchestra which will begin the program of orchestra numbers coincident with the opening of the dining-room for serving at 6 o'clock. Those who "come to dine and remain to dance" will have the pleasure of the dinner-dance followed by a regular program beginning at 9 o'clock when those dining at home will join the crowd for the remainder of the evening. During the latter part of the evening, ice cream, sandwiches and punch will be served.

The evening program will present many unusual numbers including in addition to the favorite cymbal dances, a number of attractive favor dances. Among those making reservations for parties varying in number from half a dozen to twenty and thirty, are
Dr. J. E. Paul, Arthur Lyon, J. E.
Liebig, Samuel Nau, Angus J.
Crookshank, Harry M. Smith, Ellis
Rhodes, and C. F. Messer of Long Beach.

Reservations are also being made at the Inn for New Years dinner to be served at noon and again at 6 o'clock of New Years day. Among out-of-town hosts who have chosen the attractive place as the scene of their entertaining are Mr. and Mrs. J. S.
Barnes of Los Angeles who will be dinner hosts to a group of friends accompanying them out from the city.

Pleasant Dinner Marks Holidays

Adding to the pleasures of holiday week were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Johnson, 421 South Broadway when they entertained a group of friends at dinner Wednesday night.
Christmas wishes, holly and poinsettias lent a holiday aspect to the scene and at the prettily appointed table, covers were laid for
Mr. and Mrs. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Gerrard, Mr. and Mrs.
E. G. Summers and Mr. and Mrs.
Lawrence Peake.

Musical and conversation enlivened the evening and an exciting contest of "Rook" offered added entertainment.

CONFESSED LAUNDRY WRECKERS CAPTURED

NEW YORK, Dec. 29. — Two men taken in a recent round-up of burglar suspects confessed today, according to the police, that they had been employed by a laundry workers' association at $75 a job to destroy with acids the wearing apparel in the shops of laundry owners who refused to recognize them. They were reported to have worked together on fifteen jobs and that the laundries they visited had been set afire with the acids.
A watchman was burned to death in one of the fires, they said.
Immediately after the men, who gave their names as Frank Marchez and Louis Wallinger, had confessed, police raided the headquarters of a laundrymen's organization in Park Row, seized its records and arrested two officials, whose names they would not reveal.

Information given by Marchez and Wallinger, it was said, indicated that the laundry organization had employed them had set out to destroy the shop of every laundryman who refused to recognize their organization.
Marchez and Wallinger declared they had been employed by other organizations as "guerrillas," and that their duties were to frighten business men into joining the various organizations.

Is Honor Guest
At Yuletide Feast

Yuletide brought many joys to Santa Anans, but few had the pleasure of entertaining at the Christmas fireside, a grandfather ninety-four years young. And that happy experience came to the young people gathered at the W.
A. West home on Seventeenth street. For all Christmas joys centered around the honored guests,
Mr. and Mrs. Henry Clinton, for Mr. Clinton has celebrated his ninety-fourth birthday.

Such a happy day it was, with holly, a Christmas tree and Christmas flowers to add to the cheer, and at noon a dinner recalling Dickens and the Yuletide of old England since a roasted goose shared honors with the sizzling turkey.

In addition to Mr. and Mrs.
West and Mr. and Mrs. Clinton, those seated around the hospitable board were Mr. and Mrs. William Mize, the latter assisting her mother in serving the dinner;
Robert Waller, Mr. and Mrs.
Walter Clothier and daughter,
Muriel, of Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. Shirley Jenkins and sons of San Diego; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brookbank and sons of Tustin.

Eastern Star

Savoring of the stately days when furs, feathers and silken gowns were donned and one sallied forth to pay New Years calls, are the plans for the Monday night meeting of Hermosa chapter, Order of Eastern Star. For since the meeting falls on the evening of New Year's day, officers of the chapter will receive all local and visiting members, with past patrons and the Past Matrons' association as honor guests.

It was announced today by Mrs.
George Baldwin, chairman of the committee on arrangements, that following the regular chapter, the honor guests would appear in a body and then would come an entertaining program of several surprise features to include instrumental and orchestra numbers, readings, songs and a clever skit
by a group of young people.
"Money-musk," the "Virginia Reel," and old time quadrilles will open the program of dance numbers which will be presented during the latter part of the evening and with the varied nature of the entertainment, one of the happiest gatherings ever enjoyed by the "Stars" is anticipated.

In Memoriam

Mrs. T. H. Smith, Died Dec. 28, 1922.

My beautiful sister was dying.
The one I loved so well.
And the wintry wind was sighing,
As the nightly shadows fell.
A last and happy Christmas.
She had spent with loved ones
here,
But we knew that up in Heaven,
She would spend the glad New Year.

The departing hour was nearing.
The sad departing hour,
And the angels were appearing.
To claim the blooming flower.
The flower that here had blossomed.
So beautiful and fair;
But we knew that up in Heaven,
No frosts should sear it there.

The angels hovered o'er her,
And seraphs to the throne,
Had hastened on before her,
To make her coming known;
And it seemed the choir of Heaven,
Began to sing for joy,
That a soul should reach its portals,
And cast off all alloy.

And the angel throng caressing,
The one whom they made free,
On the watchers breathed a blessing,
And one I trust on me.
And then they bore her upward,
To paradise above,
To await the resurrection,
In realms of bliss and love.

Yes, she is resting ever,
Where sorrows come no more,
And we shall see her never,
On this earth as of yore.
But sister, oft we're thinking,
Of thee at rest in peace;
And long again to see thee,
Where love shall never cease.
—Mary L. Stanley.

PLAN TO HARNESS WINDS LONDON, Dec. 29. — A plan to harness the winds and make them produce electricity for rural districts has been presented to the ministry of agriculture. The scheme involves the erection on hillsides of low buildings from the sides of which will project huge wings. These wings will be spun by the wind horizontally just above the ground.
Proponents of the plan assert that unlimited amounts of electricity can be obtained in this way at a minimum cost.

Guest Group Enjoys
Merry House Party
Over Holidays

The home of Mr. and Mrs. V.
Vernon Margrave, 925 Cypress avenue, was the scene of a gay and brilliant house party, which started last Friday and continued until Tuesday.

The house was beautifully decorated in holly, mistletoe and Christmas bells. Saturday evening after a program of music and Scripture reading, a dazzling Christmas tree was unveiled, at which time Santa Claus appeared on the scene. Amid shouts of laughter and the ringing of sleigh-bells he distributed the gifts banked about the tree, also candy, nuts and fruit to all present.

Sunday evening a bounteous Christmas dinner was served. The guests were: Mrs. V. R. Warbriton of Los Angeles, Mrs. Kelpie, T. Willen and C. B. Watts of San Diego, sisters and brother of Mrs.
Margrave.

Miss Isabel Anderson and Miss Estelle Nison have returned from Los Angeles where they were called upon matters pertaining to college sororities.

city is Eugene Singer of Milwaukee and spends half of each year abroad. When he leaves for Ger-to accompany him.

B. West, returned yesterday to Stanford University where he received his J. D. degree before the Christmas holidays. He plans to take the bar examinations at San Francisco next month.

Innes, 705 North Main street, returned to Stanford University today to resume his studies.

Relief Corps

A happy day with a wonderful dinner was enjoyed today at the G. A. R. hall, when members of the W. R. C. gave their annual dinner to the veterans of Sedgwick post, G. A. R.

Contrary to previous years, the Relief Corps members furnishing the entertainment, were guests as well and enjoyed the dinner with the veterans and their wives, although some confusion resulted owing to the printed notice that W. R. C. members and their husbands would enjoy the feast.

This was not the case, since the husbands were eligible to attend only in case they were members of the post. Nevertheless it was a large and happy crowd that enjoyed the delicious repast in the attractively decorated banquet room.

utive board of the American Legion given at the Knights of Columbus hall for the benefit of the K. C.

baseball club.
Mrs. James Murphy and J. Ogden Markel proved the most proficient players and received prizes for their skill. Later the evening was devoted to dancing with Miss Bower furnishing piano music.
Girls of the Y. L. L. served refreshments of cake and hot chocolate.

Thursday night, January 4, a similar party will be presented at

PREDICT LOW SCORE IN CARD-PITT FRAY

Expert Says Stanford Has Chance to Win If Line
Protects Backfield

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 29.—"Down on the farm" at Stanford university, two football teams will try to sleep tonight to be ready for the game tomorrow afternoon, toward which they have been looking and for which they have been preparing themselves for a month. The tapering off is finished and the system of play for Stanford and Pittsburgh is determined as far as it can be determined. The actual game is all that is left. In Pasadena, Penn. State and the University of Southern California teams still have two days of grace. Tomorrow the coaches can put their teams through the final light workouts, perfect the last trick play and give the last lesson on football as it should be played. Monday afternoon in the beautiful new Tournament of Roses bowl the teams will recite their lessons before howling thousands of wild-eyed fans.

Warner confident
There is no denying the fact that "Pop" Warner, coach of the Pitt Panthers, is confident that his team will win from Stanford tomorrow. The consensus of opinion agrees with "Pop," the multi-talented figure that Pitt's greater experience will be the determining factor. All the while, however, there is the chance that Stanford will rise to the emergency, do the unexpected and pull out with a victory.

Up To Card Line
If Stanford wins it will be because its line is strong enough to protect the running attack of its backfield and at the same time charge through and break up Pitt plays before they form. The Panther backfield can run, pass and plunge. The Stanford backfield can only run and pass. That puts it up to the line to stop the plunges and overcome the Pitt advantage.

Stanford will be watching Hewitt, the line smashing Panther full-back who may be either the hero or the goat. Hewitt is known as a fumbler. If he fumbles tomorrow he may be the goat. If he holds the ball when his 230 pounds of beef hit the line, he may be the hero.

The safest bet is that the victory will not be lopsided.

"SHORTY" SMITH PICKS ALL-LEAGUE FOOTBALL ELEVEN

"It is a hard job to pick an All-County league football team because you don't have a chance to see the different fellows work out in different games," "Shorty" Smith, Fullerton high school coach, said when requested to name his selections for an all-star aggregation.

"A person could pick two teams," Smith continued, "and the second would be just about as strong as the first."

The Fullerton coach picked the following men on his All-County league aggregation: Ends, Shipkey (Fullerton) and Coffman (Santa Ana); tackles, Thoele (Santa Ana) and Showalter (Orange); guards, Young (Fullerton) and Bickmore (Huntington Beach); quarter, Wilcox (Santa Ana); half, Black (Santa Ana) and Carpenter (Fullerton); full, Jabs, (Santa Ana).

Smith opined that Shipkey was the best end in the league, Thoele the best tackle, Young the best guard, Stillens the leading center, Wilcox the best quarter, Black the best half and Jabs the leading fullback.

GIVES SIDELIGHTS ON FOOTBALL WITH SERVICE TEAMS

If anybody has the idea that playing football with one of Uncle Sam's service teams is not hard work let him talk the matter over with Paul Irvine, son of Mrs. Ida B. Irvine, 818 Garfield street.

Irvine is a sergeant in the Marine corps and is on the U. S. S. Mississippi, the big dreadnaught that is anchored for the present at San Pedro. Irvine, a former Santa Ana high school boy played halfback with the Mississippi eleven during the past season. He is now here visiting relatives over the holidays. Boys in the service will tell the world that Irvine was as good as any man on the coast at carrying the ball. In more than one game the Santa Ana man was the individual star. In one important fray he reeled off a 92-yard run.

Irvine said football is growing in the service and the players are required to train just like they were members of a big college eleven. The Mississippi squad reported for work early in July, practicing at Eugene, Oregon, when the big vessel was harbored there. The season did not end until about two weeks ago when the heavy U. S. S. New York outfit defeated the Mississippi for the division championship. The New York boasted half a dozen former Annapolis stars and the rest were all experienced players, many from college teams.

The service players report for practice about 2 p. m. and drill until dark. They have the best of coaching. As many as 15,000 fans saw some of the more important fleet battles.

1923 POLY GRID MATERIAL SHOWS POSSIBILITIES

The Santa Ana high school 1923 team showed great possibilities when it held the strong 1921 champions to an 8 to 0 score at Poly field Christmas day. There were not half a dozen spectators before the engagement began who gave next year's men a chance to keep the score that low.

The 1923 line held its own for the most part with the forwards who swept everything before them last season. Time after time Bart Cock, the California freshman star, was stopped without gain because some 1923 line-man broke through and smeared him before he had a chance to get under way. "Spud" Morrison will have just about twice as much material to begin next season's grid campaign than he had at the outset of the past football calendar.

ANNOUNCERS, MOTHERS DIFFER ON BOXERS' NAMES

If prize ring announcers ever tried to call most of the prominent boxers of today by names their parrots gave them the fans would go into hysterics.

A perusal of Tom Andrews' Record of Fighters show that many a pugilist could be jailed as a forger if he ever attempted to sign his ring name to a check. Here is the way the boxer's mamma's and the announcers differ:

TRAFFIC OFFICERS' JOBS AGAIN SECURE

For a little while the jobs of Orange county's motorcycle officers trembled in the balance. There was a precious few minutes during which it looked as though the authority for hiring them had been done away with by the recent much discussed decision of the supreme court which held that a county officer cannot have new deputies added to his staff during his term of office.

But their jobs were safe again today. District Attorney A. P. Nelson had decided that they were employed legally.

It was County Auditor W. C. Jerome who took the matter to the district attorney for a decision. Jerome had been informed that in San Mateo county the motorcycle officers had all been thrown off the county payroll by the auditor of that county on the ground that they were deputies added in violation of the new supreme court decision. Jerome could not see how the San Mateo auditor saw it that way, so he took the case to the county's legal advisor.

Nelson looked up the laws and declared that the county can employ as many motorcycle officers as it needs and add to the force at any time. There is a state law which gives the district attorney almost unlimited authority to employ men in the investigation and suppression of crime. The motorcycle officers have been working out of his office, under his direction, and by authority of this law. True, they have worn badges as deputy sheriffs, but they have been deputized as a matter of convenience so they could make arrests and not because they were under the direction of the sheriff.

TILDEN TO OPEN NET PLAY AFTER INJURY

CHICAGO, Dec. 29.—William T. Tilden, national tennis champion, on January 5 and 6 will make his first public appearance since the operation which cost him two joints of the middle finger of his stroke hand.

Although Tilden's friends have declared that the loss would not seriously affect his game, it will undoubtedly take some time to overcome the handicap and play up to his usual form.

The wizard will appear in a series of matches here with Vincent Richards, Sam Hardy and S. Howard Voshel.

FARM BUREAU MEN LEAVE FOR PARLEY

Orange county delegates of the farm bureau today were leaving for El Toro to attend the meeting of regional directors of the seven Southern California counties of the California Farm Bureau federation which is scheduled to be held there tomorrow.

Many legislative problems will be presented to the meeting by A. C. Hardison, president of the California Farm Bureau federation, according to R. D. Flaherty, secretary-manager of the Orange county farm bureau.

Formation of a grain exchange to serve the counties of Orange, North San Diego, Riverside and San Bernardino on the lines of the California farm bureau exchange also will be considered.

Directors of this region, No. 1, meet every seven weeks, once in each county during the year. Orange county men who were expected to attend the meeting tomorrow included Dr. J. R. Schofield of Buena Park, president of the Orange county farm bureau; John Osterman of El Toro, vice-president; Aaron Buchheit of San Juan Capistrano, director; J. A. Smiley of West Orange, director; R. D. Flaherty, retiring secretary-manager; Edwin F. Whedon, who will succeed Flaherty January 2; and H. E. Wahlberg, farm advisor.

Alex Johnson, secretary of the state farm bureau exchange, and T. E. Morgan, general manager of the grain department, were programmed to attend the meeting, as was W. K. Schoonover, citrus specialist.

GRID COACHES PLAN TO INCREASE SCOPE

Mentors Pass Ten Rules to Help Football; Freshmen Action Deferred

BY JACKSON V. SCHOLZ

(United Press Staff Correspondent)
NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—The National Collegiate Athletic association which has functioned for many years purely in the capacity of an advisory body, took steps in its annual meeting yesterday to adopt certain changes in its constitution which will increase its scope and place it in the administrative class.

Even though the present revision of the constitution greatly increases the influence of the body over intercollegiate athletics, the proposed changes which were vigorously and successfully attacked by delegates with interests outside the N. C. A. A., might have had the effect of lifting the N. C. A. A. into the autocratic class.

A great deal of interest was created on the report of the resolution committee which presented eleven proposals, ten of which were finally passed in the form of resolutions.

Dean W. Moorehouse of Drake University presented the resolutions, as follows:

- 1—That colleges should organize more intercollegiate conferences.
- 2—More rigid enforcement of amateur regulations.
- 3—Adoption of the freshman rule.
- 4—Condemnation of "tramp" athletes.
- 5—That all collegiate athletes should be limited to three years of collegiate competition.
- 6—That graduate students be declared ineligible for intercollegiate competition.
- 7—To oppose freshman contests between colleges.
- 8—That all college athletes must receive the permission of the faculty before competing on other than college teams.
- 9—To fight the betting evil in college sports.
- 10—That the faculty should have absolute control of all college sports.
- 11—That all colleges should exert their influence toward enforcing the rules of the association.

JUVENILE HOME HEAD TELLS APPRECIATION

Expressing her appreciation for the thoughtfulness and generosity on the part of so many organizations and individuals of the county which made possible a happy Christmas for the children of the juvenile home, Mrs. F. E. Hutchins, matron, today enumerated some of the organizations who acted as "pinch hitters for Santa Claus."

Among these were the Orange County Shrine club, Santa Ana Kiwanis club, Santa Ana and Fullerton Rotary clubs, Orange county courthouse employees, Sunday school classes of Santa Ana and Fullerton churches, Garden Grove Epworth league and many individuals among the business men of this city who gave generously toward the Christmas joys of the children.

WILLARD LOOKS BAD IN BOUT AT TACOMA

TACOMA, Wash., Dec. 29.—Jess Willard, former world's heavyweight champion boxer, showed his stuff here last night and it was a sorry exhibition.

Willard founced around the ring for four one-minute rounds with Frank Farmer, veteran local heavyweight. The big fellow didn't show one characteristic of the champion, let alone a prospect for the crown that Jack Dempsey hooked from him in Toledo in 1919.

In the preliminary bouts, Joe Dunn, Portland, won a close decision over Pinky Mason, local welterweight, and Chuck Hellman, Portland 120 pounder, won a technical knockout over Ludwig Jones, local boy.

HALIFAX, N. The Westhaven had towed the helpless craft nearly 500 miles.

KNIGHTHOOD PICTURE APPEALS TO LOCAL PATRONS.

It is seldom that one is offered a production so universally appealing as the monster presentation of "When Knighthood was in Flower," which with beautiful Marion Davies as the star is the attraction now showing at the Temple theatre.

If one goes in for adventure, he will find everything to his liking in the swiftly moving action Charles Major wrote into this fascinating tale of the love of a princess of the royal blood, and a lowly captain of the guards. If it is romance one seeks, where would one look for a more emphatic registration than that to be found in a slip of a princess during the entire resources of a kingdom in her determination to win the man of her heart. If one goes in for the spectacular, it will be many years before a more astounding panorama of sheer massiveness is revealed than the settings used in this picture. If it is histrionic endeavor that appeals to the reviewer, certainly a cast of such magnitude as was enlisted for the interpretation of this story cannot but attract his attention.

"You'll have to hurry" is now the slogan for this drawing near, as its closing date is drawing near. The engagement cannot be held over. Subsequent bookings along the circuit make the forwarding of the film imperative after its final performance here Sunday night.

VALENTINO FILM ENDS RUN HERE TONIGHT.

Some unusual and striking costumes were designed for Rodolph Valentino to wear in some of the fantastic vision episodes of his latest Paramount vehicle, "The Young Rajah," which closes its engagement at the Yost theatre tonight.

These are worn by the star in the Hindu legendary vision scene in which he plays by double exposure, the two characters, Krishna, the Hindu god, and Arjuna, his mortal brother. The sequence is symbolic and shows an ancient battle scene with Arjuna and his enemies in fantastic chariots and war dress.

Stocks, Markets and Financial News

WALL ST. JOURNAL FINANCIAL REVIEW

(United Press Leased Wire)
NEW YORK, Dec. 29.—Loss recording sales for cash continued a halting influence in the stock market today. The market, however, showed vigorous resistance and capacity to absorb sales at or above Thursday's closing levels. When the pressure eased in mid afternoon, prices turned decidedly upward with the independent steels in the lead.

Although the full extent of the recovery will not be reflected in figures for the current quarter, practically all steel companies will show substantial balances for the common issues.

The extent of the recovery in industry during the past year was reflected in the department of commerce review which showed that output of manufactured goods had increased about 50 percent over 1921. Increase in steel production was between 60 and 70 percent and automobiles 50 percent.

Closing prices included:
U. S. Steel 107 1/8, up 1 3/8; Bethlehem 62 3/8, up 1 1/8; Baldwin 137 1/8, up 1 1/8; American Locomotive 127 1/4, up 1 1/4; Pan American, 91 3/8, up 5/8; Texas Company 49, up 1 5/8; California Petroleum 67 1/4, up 1/2; Studebaker 114 7/8, up 3 3/8; General Motors, 14 7/8, up 1/8; Rubber 55 1/8, up 1/8; Kelly Springfield 48 1/2, up 1/2; 1-1/2; Endicott Johnson 33 1/2, up 1/2; Ford 39 7/8, up 3/8; Utah 64, up 1/4; Atchafalca 101 1/2, up 1/2; 1-1/2; 1-1/2; B. and O. 41 7/8, up 3/8; C. and N. CELERY PRICES IN DAY REGION JUMP

(United Press Leased Wire)
SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 29.—A carload of Watsonville cabbage is said to have arrived today and was offered at 10 to 14 cents per pound. Celery supplies were very light in the early trading hours and prices advanced sharply. Fancy celery sold from $4.50 to $5.00 per crate, with choice grades bringing $3.50 to $4.00.

According to the latest reports on the street, the eastern market on Imperial valley peas is 8 to 10 cents lower and further declines on the local market is not wholly unexpected.

There was virtually no change in the market on turkeys and other classes of poultry. Receipts of dressed turkeys were estimated at from 35 to 37 tons. Receipts of live poultry were very light.

Local cold storage holding of apples were reported at 430,011 boxes on December 28, showing a reduction of 2,404 boxes during the week. Holdings of apples on same date last year were given as 295,386 boxes.

Old storage holdings of onions in San Francisco amounted to 113,120 sacks, which is a slight increase over the previous week's figures.

Supplies light: Pineapples, grapes, pears, cabbage, beans, summer squash, cauliflower, rhubarb, cucumbers, tomatoes.

Supplies liberal: Bananas, apples, oranges, grapefruit, lemons, potatoes, celery, onions, spinach, lettuce, bell peppers, egg plant, peas.

ALL GRAINS CLOSE UNEVENLY LOWER

(United Press Leased Wire)
CHICAGO, Dec. 29.—All grains closed unevenly lower on the Chicago board of trade today due largely to the weak closing of wheat at Liverpool. Heavy liquidation on the part of Wall street operators, evening up for the year, was also apparent. Provisions closed unchanged.

December wheat opened off 1-4 at 126 3/4 and closed off 1-2; May opened off 1-2 at 124 1/4 and closed off 1-8; July opened off 1-8 at 114 1/8 and closed off 1-4.

WEEK-END TRADING IN L. A. IS QUIET

(United Press Leased Wire)
LOS ANGELES, Dec. 29.—Today's trading shows more activity but was comparatively quiet for the end of the week. Supplies generally are liberal with moderate demand and the market on most lines fairly steady. Peas, tangarines and potatoes are selling slightly lower under heavy receipts. Apples are meeting with a good demand and are moving well at unchanged prices. Onions are selling slower at firm levels. Bunched and green vegetables are selling freely but receipts are quite heavy.

QUIZ WOMAN AS AIDE IN ESCAPE OF CLARA

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 29.—Mrs. Peggy Buxton, of Long Beach, friendly with Clara Phillips when they were jail inmates together, was arrested today on a charge of violating her parole, and will be questioned as to possible contribution of Clara's escape and present whereabouts, the sheriff's office announced.

Mrs. Buxton was paroled on a charge of moral vagrancy shortly before Clara made her escape. Sheriff's deputies declared today that she is the woman who was arrested in Casper, Wyo., several days after Clara's escape. She was released when authorities there were convinced that she was not the escaped hammer murderer.

Deputies from the sheriff's office last night investigated a lonely cabin in the hills back of Glendale, where a woman resembling Clara was reported to have been hiding for some days.

The cabin was found deserted, but there were indications of hasty departure. Under Sheriff Biscailuz said.

AUTO IS WRECKED IN CRASH NEAR ANAHEIM

A light automobile, owned by B. Cas Mendosa, 319 West Santa Ana street, Anaheim, was at the side of the county highway near that city today wrecked, and Mendosa didn't know who did it.

Mendosa was driving toward Anaheim last night, he said, when a large car struck his front wheel, bending the axle, wheel and frame, turning the car completely about, and ripping the hood and top off.

The driver of the larger car failed to stop, Mendosa said.

FIND CAUSE OF POTATO CROPS DESTRUCTION

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Dec. 29.—Cause of the mosaic disease, which destroys nearly thirty per cent of the country's potato crop and wreaks havoc in the tomato, lettuce, clover, bean and tobacco crops, has been discovered.

Announcement of the discovery, which, it was estimated, will save the farmers of the country hundreds of millions of dollars was made by Dr. Ray Nelson of the University of Michigan in the meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Dr. Nelson said that he had found, after long investigation, that a one-cell animal of the type known to scientists as a horizoan, cause the mosaic disease, has been one of the farmer's greatest enemies. The animal is about two thousandths of an inch long, he said.

Applause broke loose when Dr. Nelson announced his discovery and the tribute reached its height when he showed by lantern slide a microscope photograph of the tiny animal, which for years has wrought destruction on American farms.

Having discovered the cause of mosaic disease, means of controlling it will be developed rapidly, it was predicted.

ST. LOUIS BREWERY MAN SHOT TO DEATH

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Dec. 29.—William J. Lemp, 55, president of the brewery company bearing his name, was found shot to death in his office today.

Lemp, the third member of the famous brewer family to meet a violent death, had been shot twice near the heart. A revolver was found at his feet. There was no note of explanation.

Business associates said Lemp had been worrying over the passing of the brewery, valued at $4,000,000. The properties are now in the process of liquidation.

Lemp's father, founder of the brewery, and a sister, Mrs. Elsa Lemp Wright, previously met death in a similar manner.

HAYS SEES ARBUCKLE IN ROLE OF DIRECTOR

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 29.—"Fatty" Arbuckle will get his new start in the motion picture game as a director, Will Hays, screen dictator, believes.

Joseph Schenck will give Arbuckle a chance to direct pictures and in this no one will likely interfere, Hays said in an address here last night. The only other comment Hays would make in regard to the comedian was that he did not believe Arbuckle would appear in his former role on the screen for some time.

Born of science to fill a great need

AMERICA has become so used to the sugar-water type of beverage that a drink which really buoy you up and makes you feel genuinely better is both unexpected and welcome.

Ko-Fan, that new fascinating drink from the Tropics and Far East, does this. It braces up both body and brain. It gives real and lasting refreshment.

Leonard, the scientist, says of one of the principal elements of Ko-Fan:

"It stimulates intellectual activity and removes fatigue. It stirs a man up and enlivens him, and he feels much better."

This is the reason Ko-Fan is becoming so tremendously popular. It fills a real need.

It was a happy coincidence that the scientific blending of the many good things that produce this wholesome vigor and vim should also provide a flavor which is superbly pleasing.

Try Ko-Fan today. Its taste alone will win you.

CHURCH WOMEN GIVE 'NEWSIES' BIG 'SPREAD,' JOYOUS EVENING

Ask any representative group of young boys on Santa Ana streets today, the names of the most splendid examples of American womanhood and do you think he would say Barbara Frietchie or Maud Ballington Booth or Martha Washington or Mrs. Harding or any ordinary people like that?

Well, then, you don't know anything about the place in the affections of youthful masculine Santa Ana, held by the women of the First Christian church.

You weren't at the church last night to join in all the rousing songs or to hear Hazel Landers Hummel sing "Little Orphan Annie," or Mrs. F. T. Porter deliver an old colored parson's sermon on apples. You didn't eat creamed chicken and hot biscuits and sweet potatoes and ice cream and homemade cake of every known variety until you were like one potential president who asserted that he "could still chaw but he couldn't swallow."

Newsies Have Big Party. In short, you weren't at the newsies' banquet which the good women of the Christian Church Aid society tender each year to all the lads who sell or deliver papers in and near Santa Ana.

The glories of the Mardi Gras ball in New Orleans, the famous Philadelphia Assembly, the Los Angeles Bachelors' Ball and other social functions of the world outside Santa Ana, are as nothing to the minds of the newsies in comparison with this event, which was started several years ago by the Aid Society giving a very informal invitation to the boys to come to the church and have a party.

About thirty boys responded to that first suggestion. Last night more than 150 excited, happy lads gathered at the church. And the society plans to continue the custom indefinitely.

Plans Well Executed. Mrs. T. D. Knights, well loved head of the society, is one of the leaders in the affair. Mrs. W. B. Williams, as chairman of the committee on arrangements, was a host in herself when it came to planning—and executing those plans.

Hazel Landers Hummel had the entertainment in charge, while Edward J. Hummel was toastmaster and song leader.

The boys gathered in the auditorium where community singing was enjoyed with Miss Glenda May Wagner at the piano, Miss Lizetta Phillips and Merle G. Ramsey playing xylophones.

Following the little "song-fest" was the supreme event of the evening, the dinner. Plates were emptied and filled and emptied and filled again, for it seemed quite the understood thing that the boys should "come up for seconds" and even "thirds."

Talks Are Given. Followed a succession of talks with Edward Hummel proving a witty and entertaining toastmaster. Witty and entertaining also proved the lads called upon, and many were the interesting experiences related of the "life of a newsboy."

Speakers included Howard Law, Bernard De Smith, Warren Hamilton, Julian Heim, Alfred Alton, Howard Harper, Roy King and Lloyd Reitel, while small Frank Forsburg, 6 years old, was acclaimed the youngest "newsie."

In the more formal program in the auditorium, Mrs. Porter gave two delightful readings, the aforementioned "Sermon on Apples," and "Sam's Letter."

Give Musical Numbers. Popular numbers on the violin were given by Loren Cannon, with Ethel Troxell Thompson at the piano; Tom Hill sang a widely varied group of songs; Mrs. Thompson gave "Let the Rest of the World Go By" as a trombone solo with Miss Carrie Seaton at the piano; Edward Hummel sang "Mandalay"; R. R. Miller gave a short talk and presented a cake (gift of W. D. Baker) to each of two lads whose birthdays fell nearest the date.

Alfred Stinson and another boy whose birthday was on December 28, Young Frank Forsburg, as youngest newsie, received a box of candy from Mrs. Knights, and then, after the program ended with Mrs. Hummel's solo, "Little Orphan Annie," the boys marched out, each one receiving a rosy apple as a "good night gift."

The generous hearted men and women who greeted the boys and aided in serving the supper included Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Williams, the Rev. and Mrs. F. T. Porter, Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Knights, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. McCarter, Mr. and Mrs. O'Brien, Mr. and Mrs. T. P. King, Mr. and Mrs. Phillips, Mr. and Mrs. Morris, Mr. and Mrs. R. R. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Cashlow, Mrs. Frank Cannon and others.

Guests present included Paul Lobo, Everett Frostil, Billie Middleton, Doyle Stockton, Clyde Richardson, Harold Long, Robert Dugdale, Roy King, Claude Evans, Clifford Flint, Lyle Flint, Dan Barnes, Theron Block, Albert Messerall, Bernard De Sonet, John Gallagher, Louis Jimenez, Andy De Sonet, Julian French, Ross Rogers, Grover Spray, Glen Mathias, Hugo Kiler, John McMillen, Harvey Wilcox, Erich Reinan, Lawrence Campbell, Robert Linde, Edward Duckett, Hubert Prior, Herbert Prior, Willis Moore, Harry Hill, Herman Reinan, Lloyd Davidson, B. $400,000 BOND ISSUE TO BE SOLD JAN. 9

Status of the $400,000 school bonds recently voted now rests with the board of supervisors, F. L. Andrews, secretary of the board of education, said today.

"No action in respect to the bonds," he said, "will be taken until the bids are opened at the supervisors' meeting January 9."

"The successful bidder then has thirty days in which to investigate the legality of the proceedings. Any flaw found by authorized experts would void the entire issue."

"Due to this routine it will be at least six weeks or two months until standing of the bond issue is definitely known."

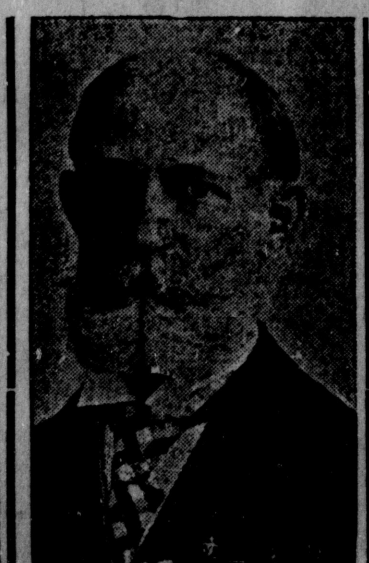

"Assuming that the bonds are sold without interference, the board of education then may prepare to utilize the funds created for school building purposes. Nothing will be done by the board until it is sure of its authority."

"Furthermore, the life of this particular bond is approaching its end. This board would not want to take steps in respect to planning use of the bond money that would embarrass the succeeding board of education."

"Logical steps upon receiving the bond money would be for the board to engage an architect to draw plans for the proposed buildings, then issue a call for bids on the structure in regular routine. But nothing will be done until the bonds are released."

$15,000 ORGAN TO GRACE NEW AUDITORIUM AT ORANGE

Big Kimball Instrument to Set Precedent in High Schools of County

PLAN MANY CONCERTS

Pupils, Faculty Contribute Third of Sum Necessary To Close Purchase

Pupils of the Orange high school are facing the new year with songs of thanksgiving.

With contracts signed and with preliminary steps well under way a fifteen thousand dollar Kimball organ will be installed in the school's new auditorium within the immediate future.

This auditorium, erected at a cost of $160,000, will be dedicated the latter part of February. On February 23 the famous Philharmonic Orchestra of Los Angeles will give a concert in the new structure.

"And almost immediately thereafter," said Percy Richards, head of the music department, "plans will be made looking to the completion of the mammoth organ to be placed in the auditorium."

First H. S. Organ.

This organ, representing a labor of love on the part of the student body and faculty, will be one of the finest instruments of the kind obtainable for the money at our disposal.

"And, incidentally, it will be the first pipe organ to be installed in an Orange county high school. In

Business Here Will Be Virtually Suspended On New Year's Day

New Year's day, next Monday, will be generally observed in Santa Ana, with a virtually entire suspension of business.

According to P. S. Lucas, secretary of the Merchants and Manufacturers' association, this is one of the holidays recognized by the organization, and all members are expected to close their places of business.

Banks and city and county offices will be closed.

The post office will be closed all day and there will be no deliveries either by rural or city carriers, according to C. D. Overhiser, postmaster. Mails will be dispatched as usual. The general delivery window will not be open.

LOS ANGELES POLICE SEEK "MASTER MIND"

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 29.—With eighteen members of an alleged burglar band in custody, police were today searching for the "master mind" who is said to have initiated the others into the art of banditry, and to have planned the various jobs.

Police have recovered $20,000 in loot, and believe that as much more has been disposed of to "fence" the roundup has been quietly underway for two weeks, it was revealed today. The various alleged members of the gang are being held on vagrancy and other charges pending the arrest of others.

Police believe the round-up will largely put a stop to the wave of burglaries and banditry which has swept over Los Angeles and environs during the past three months.

BIRD CENSUS TAKEN.

RIVERSIDE, Dec. 29.—Mrs. George M. Turner of the Riverside Audubon society, today made her official report of the Christmas bird census for Riverside. The report shows fifty-six species for a total of 813 individuals of the feathered tribe. The redwing blackbird leads with 168, the American coot second with 128 and Brewer blackbird 119.

URGES COUNTY PORTMANTEAU PLAY BODY

Organization to Centralize Drama Activities Is Advocated

"During the past few years there has been a wider interest in the development of the drama than ever before," said Stanley Reed, here today, discussing the plan to form an organization to be known as the Orange County Portmanteau Players.

"Now comes a new suggestion—to bind the many community players into a common organization and permit the entire county to share in the work."

"Interest was never keener in the community player movement than at present. Courses in drama and play production have become a part of the courses in virtually every college and university. The community idea has spread until every city of any prominence is producing plays."

"Orange county has not been backward in the development of players and the presentation of plays. Starting with the Santa Ana Community Players, this commendable movement has found seed in nearly every city in the county."

Much Activity Shown. Fullerton, Huntington Beach, Orange, Anaheim and Laguna Beach have each organized their own Community Players, independent of the others. Up to the present time each organization has presented at least one play to its community.

"However, there has been no central organization to aid in developing the work. Each organization has worked out its own problems according to its individual needs and tastes. There has been no ex-

PLAN $100,000 COUNTY PHONE WORK IN '23

Cities in District Will Be Benefited By Large Extensions

Extensive extensions to the telephone system of Orange county outside of Santa Ana, which now is receiving considerable attention, will be made during the new year, Earl S. Morrow, district manager of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company, said here today.

"Approximately $100,000 will be spent by the telephone company in this county during 1923," Morrow said, "for the extension of lines, installation of new lines, additions to exchanges, and many other additions, all with the aim of keeping the service up to standard."

"Orange county's growth and the constant increase in the number of telephone subscribers make these extensions and additions necessary."

Anaheim Gets Share. "Several new switchboard sections will be installed at the Anaheim exchange at a cost of approximately $18,000. This work probably will be completed by September, 1923. The aerial construction will be removed from North Los Angeles street, which means that the lines will be carried in an underground conduit, at a cost of $9,600. Moving the 'heavy toll' lead from Los Angeles street to the eastern section of the city in order to get it off the busy thoroughfare will cost approximately $4,000."

Relief will be given to the existing Orange-Santa Ana trunk cable by new installations at Orange at a cost of $10,000. An outside plant extension is planned for this exchange.

Fullerton Gets $12,000. Fullerton will be provided with additional cable plant in various parts of the city and extensions to new tracts demanding service. More than $12,000 will be spent in this work.

The same amount will be spent at Placentia for additional cable extensions and enlargements planned for this exchange.

"Four sections of switchboard providing two local and two toll positions with sufficient equipment to care for 305 subscribers will replace the present magneto central office at Newport. The work will cost more than $20,000 and will be completed by March 1, 1923."

"Additional telephone facilities, principally along Euclid avenue, will be installed at Garden Grove at an expense of $4,500."

PHONE SYSTEMS DISRUPTED BY RADIO WIRES

Radio bugs, are you hitching your wire equipment to Mr. Earl S. Morrow's telephone poles?

It's no joke, he says, because it plays heck with his telephone system.

Listen to him explain the matter in your own language. Mr. Radio Bug, this is Mr. Morrow, district manager of the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph company:

"The encroachment of radio antennae on telephone poles is causing more grief than the radio fan supposes, and the telephone people would appreciate the exercise of a little restraint on the part of the enthusiastic amateur antennae installer."

A gripped telephone lineman has expressed the thought somewhat pithily in his statement to the effect that his work has always been hard enough without the added duty of cutting away a group of antennae every time he has to ascend a pole. While he might ascend a pole without much trouble, being able to see these attachments, his descent is made hazardous because, not being able to see what is below him, his feet may run afoul of an unexpected wire and a bad fall result.

"The same lineman points out that the attachment of wires other than those properly installed on poles by the company to give its patrons service, is a possible cause of service interruption and a hazard to himself and others. Antennae falling on pedestrians, or across telephone and electric light and power wires will cause a lot of trouble, and the telephone company has been forced to take the stand that attachments of this nature to their poles constitute a serious menace and requests the cooperation of radio enthusiasts in doing away with this hazard."

BETROTHAL TO ACTOR DENIED BY DIVORCEE

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 29.—Mrs. Daisy Canfield Danziger, divorced wife of J. M. Danziger, oil promoter, today denied that she was about to marry Antonio Moreno, film actor, in Los Angeles. "I'm free now and I intend to remain that way," she said.

'BOHEMIAN GIRL' COSTUMING TO SET RECORD FOR BEAUTY, CLAIM

AT 95, FATHER OF S. A. MAN YET ACTIVE

Although he is 95 years old, an age at which the average man would prefer to sit by the home fireside and rest content with laurels already won, James Melrose, a resident of England and father of H. R. Melrose, 1904 Bush street, this city, is still actively engaged in business, serves on the directorates of two banks, occupies the position of chairman of the York Race committee, and takes a lively interest in other business ventures.

"My father," said Melrose, displaying a copy of Yorkshire Herald, just received here, "enjoys excellent health, plays a prominent part in community activities and serves with zest on the racing committee."

Presides at Dinner. At the one hundred and fifty-sixth dinner of the Ancient Fraternity of Gimcracks, comprising the members of the York Race committee and the York Gimcrack club, Melrose presided for the forty-seventh time in succession.

Immediately in front of him at the club dinner was displayed the historic portrait of Gimcrack, the horse from which the fraternity takes its name, and whose victory gave the title to the Gimcrack stakes.

Prince Is Guest. Guests included Prince Henry, Lord Osborne, Lord Hamilton of Dalzell, the Lord Mayor of York and many other dignitaries.

Melrose, on rising to reply to a toast, was accorded an ovation. He thanked the guests for the flattering reception they had given to the toast of the York Race committee, coupled with himself and the Gimcrack club.

Melrose's son is associated with the Orange County Title company here.

NEW YEAR LIQUOR LAW IS PUZZLE IN S. F.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 29.—No one in San Francisco today was quite certain whether New Year's would be bone dry or just a little bit damp.

District Attorney Brady instructed police not to interfere with bona fide residents of hotels having their own liquor served them and their guests in hotel dining rooms.

But Prohibition Director Samuel Rutter, in a statement, gave notice that New Year's merrymakers better be careful because his men would seize liquor and make arrests any old place that they found liquor.

A little cash and a little each month buys anything you want for the automobile at 411 West 4th, Shepherd's Auto Repair.

Completing final arrangements for scenery and properties for the Orange County Choral union production of "The Bohemian Girl," here January 15 and 16, Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Rhodes were today resting after strenuous effort expended yesterday in Los Angeles in making those arrangements.

For many weeks the sewing machines of the property women of the organization under the direction of Mrs. H. R. Youngling, have been flying as vivid materials have been converted into equally vivid costumes.

Never in the history of the choral union has so ambitious an opera been attempted from the point of costuming and stage settings.

Change after change is required for the chorus and the gypsy and court costumes thus required have involved a huge effort in manufacture as well as a great outlay of money, it was stated.

Spanish dancers, and peasant maids will also figure in the choruses, and in each case will be suitably gowned.

It was decided to rent the court costumes as well as many of those worn by the men of the chorus, since the expense involved in making them would be more than the organization could well afford.

Through the friendship established between the choral union and the Flagg company of Los Angeles, by Mrs. Rhodes, exceedingly good terms were allowed on property and stage settings and the opera will present one of the most beautiful effects ever seen on the local stage, it was declared.

In presenting the opera, the choral union will return to the scenes of its first triumphs, the high school auditorium, where the curtain will rise on the performance promptly at 8:15 on the two successive evenings.

Star parts will be handled in the production by Miss Marjorie Warner as Arline; Mrs. G. J. Daley as "Gypsy Queen"; Robert Brown as "Devilshot" and Raymond Miles as "Thaddeus."

JUROR WHO WINKED AT MRS. OBENCHAIN FINED. LOS ANGELES, Dec. 29.—It cost James M. Rhoades, secretary of the Glendale chamber of commerce, just $200 to smile and wink at Madalynne Obenchain during her second trial, when Rhoades was a juror.

This was the amount assessed against him as a fine by Judge Sherk, following the contempt of court proceedings involving two jurors and two other persons as a result of Madalynne's second trial. Another charge was that Rhoades disregarded the court's instructions.

The three others, Eva Harrison, juror, Mrs. H. S. McCartney, wife of a deputy district attorney, and Mrs. E. F. Scott, charity worker of Glendale and friend of Rhoades, were exonerated wholly or in part by the court.

The court scored Rhoades for winking at Mrs. Obenchain.

LET HOLTVILLE-YUMA SURFACING CONTRACT

SAN DIEGO, Dec. 29.—A contract has been let for 14 miles of paved highway between Holtville and Yuma, the state highway commission announced. When this work is done but six or eight miles will be unpaved between the two cities—one of the worst desert roads in the southwest before the paving was laid.

500 'BILLS' AT ELKS' ANNUAL HIGH JINKS

Five hundred Elks who attended the annual high jinks of the local lodge last night were virtually a unit today in singing the praises of Secretary W. W. Wasser. W. K. Duffy and others who worked tirelessly to make the affair a pronounced success.

From the moment the big family assembled at the banquet board, at 6:30, until the excellent vaudeville performance was completed, at midnight, there were few dull moments for the antlered herd.

Among those who enjoyed the hospitality of the local lodge were a number of visiting lodgemen, including those from Los Angeles, Anaheim and other cities.

Upon completion of the excellent dinner prepared under the supervision of W. K. Duffy, the guests were kept in an uproar by twenty-five high-class entertainers who came to Santa Ana from Los Angeles to contribute to the merriment of the occasion.

"It was one of the most successful affairs of the kind we have ever staged," said Secretary Wasser, "and our heartfelt thanks are due all those who helped to entertain our guests."

NATAL WEEK PROGRAM AT LA HABRA PLEASURES

LA HABRA, Dec. 29.—A nine days' celebration of the Nativity, under the direction of Mrs. Eleanor Hazen, has just been completed at the Mexican camp. Each evening preceding Christmas a procession was formed by twelve girls dressed in white, who sang the "Pasada." This was led by two beautiful figures of Joseph and Mary, made by C. Espania, camp artists.

On Christmas Day a beautiful celebration, the "Noche Buena," was given under the direction of Mrs. Hazen, Mr. Espania, Mr. Gonzales and Mrs. Cervantes. The singing of the "Pasada" was followed by the reading of the Christmas story in Spanish by Antonia Lura. Messrs. Gomez and Guezman led the girls' chorus of Mexican Christmas songs. The playing of the "Pinata" game, in which everyone received a package of Christmas cheer contributed by the La Habra Citrus association, followed. As the midnight bells were ringing a figure of the Christ child, made in wax by Mr. Espania and carried by Rosie Guezman, was laid in the manger. She was accompanied by the shepherds, who sang a song of adoration which concluded the ceremony. Mr. Espania's "Naumanta," a distinctly Mexican art production, will be on exhibition at the community hall at the camp. Visitors are welcomed.

REPORT SLACKER IS STILL IN EBERBACH

BERLIN, Dec. 29.—Grover Cleveland Bergdoll, American draft evader, has not left Germany, according to advices from Eberbach today.

A dispatch received here said he spent Christmas there. It was recently reported in the United States that Bergdoll was enroute to America aboard a steamer which will dock shortly at a Pacific port. This report said he was on the vessel in the disguise of a sailor.

menting on the coming year's activities," will be divided into three parts or phases, that of the control of communicable disease; sanitary inspection of all districts under the department's jurisdiction including various industrial plants, packing houses and factories; and the sanitary inspection of dairies in the county.

"A few cases of communicable disease exist in Orange county today, but they are few in number, and at present, I should say, of no danger to the county at large.

"In the industrial and dairy field I believe our work will consist mainly of abatement of nuisances. Routine conditions in general at these places are sanitary and up to standard judging from results of my visits and reports of inspectors.

Miss Durgan to Remain
"Miss Isabel Durgan, who has been dairy inspector since November of last year, has been doing splendid work. She will remain with the department in her present capacity.

"Frank Veatch, deputy state inspector of the California State Board of Health, is coming here next month to make a sanitary survey of Orange county in company with W. W. Chandler, county sanitary inspector.

"There are extremely unsanitary conditions in isolated spots in the county, such as in various Mexican inhabited communities. The lack of systems for sewerage disposal, and in some places the low nature of the ground and difficulties encountered in effecting drainage are partially responsible. "The resources of this department will be used to eliminate such conditions."

change of plays or players between the various organizations.

"Many are familiar with the work of the Portmanteau theater of Stuart Walker and the Bandbox Players, whose work was ably presented in Santa Ana last year. It is the hope of many that Orange county may soon have an organization, to be known as the Orange County Portmanteau Players.

"This organization would have a chapter in each city of the county, with its own officers and director. These organizations would elect a president and board of governors, as well as a director-general to oversee the work. A portable, or portmanteau theater, would be constructed. This would be the property of the organization.

Plan Portable Theater
"Each chapter of the organization would be called upon to produce a one-act play. When these were ready for production the casts of the various productions would be assembled in one city. The entire program would be played in the portable theater. This practice would be followed until the entire county had seen the work of the respective players.

"Then, at a later date, there might be developed an all-star cast, to give a prize play. Playwrights, as well as players, would be developed.

"Members of the Community Players of Santa Ana will have an opportunity to see how such a production would work out when, at their first meeting after the new year, four one-act plays will be presented.

"Laguna Beach, Anaheim and Fullerton have been invited to present one-act plays. Laguna has accepted and it is quite likely the other organizations will accept."

To Stage Reed's Play
The Santa Ana players will produce a one-act play by Stanley Reed, the first original playlet to be staged by them. Reed and Mme. Ann Dare of Laguna Beach are credited with the plan to form the new organization here. Those interested were requested to communicate with Reed, Suite 3, Greenleaf building, Santa Ana.

fact, it will be the fourth installation in the state, the other three being at Owensmouth, Chaffey Union and Redondo. To the best of my knowledge, no Los Angeles high school has yet arranged for an organ.

"It is the hope of the pupils and faculty that the organ will be available in May. It will cost about $15,000, will have forty-two stops and will be unexcelled for its fine tonal quality. The students and faculty will pay about $5000 of the purchase price, while the board of trustees will assume responsibility for the remainder."

Pupils Aid Fund.
Pupils of the high school, Richards explained, have worked tirelessly, in conjunction with the faculty, in an effort to raise funds for the new organ. Amateur theatricals, bazaars, athletic events and other school affairs have helped swell the total.

"We hope," said Richards, "to give some excellent concerts for the entertainment of the people of Orange county. When the new organ has been installed and tested, we will arrange a series of concerts, featuring our 37-piece high school orchestra and the Kimball organ."

Installation, it was hoped, would be completed by the second week in May.

FINDS TRUE LOVE'S COURSE HAS DETOURS

That the course of true love has its detours, has been impressed upon S. M. Blaszman, of the U. S. army, and stationed at Fort McArthur, and his bride, who was Miss Charlotte Scheffer, 1112 West Second street, Santa Ana.

Even after his experience of being the innocent victim of circumstances resulting in two days in the Long Beach jail, and nervous distress and a delayed wedding for his waiting bride-to-be last Sunday, the path to matrimony did not even open wide with all the signs saying "Go." Automobile thieves completed the irony of it by stealing from Blaszman's car the marriage license and a number of silk things intended for the future Mrs. Blaszman. The couple were married last Wednesday.

JOHN DOE ZONE LAW CASES ARE QUASHED

John Doe cases against workmen, who were engaged in the construction of the building at the corner of Washington avenue and North Main street, over which a legal battle, to test the validity of the city's new zoning ordinance, is being waged, were dismissed by City Recorder W. F. Heathman, it was learned today.Recorder Heathman dismissed the cases on the ground that the workmen had ceased operations.
He stated, however, that should they resume their labors on thebuilding in question, new charges would be brought. Mrs. Mary Haley, owner of the property, who is accused of violating the zoning ordinance, remains the sole defendant in the case, which will be called in Heathman's court January 3 at 10 a. m.City Attorney G. H. Scott expressed the belief that the city was blameless, since Haley had procured the permit, whereas hiswife was owner of the property.
It was pointed out, however, that Haley was the owner of the property at the time the permit was issued. Since then it was understood, he had transferred the title to his wife.Wanted—Large boy for L. A.

THE SKY LINE OF SPRUCE

He fought like the wolf that was his blood brother—lunging, striking down, recoiling out of harm's way, and springing forward to strike again.

The old exhilaration and rapture of battle flashed through him as he swung his axe, sending home blow after blow.

His danced about the abaggy, bleeding form of the bear, escaping the smashing blows of the bear with miraculous agility. But at last the grizzly lunged too far. Ben sprang aside, just in time. He aimed a terrific blow just at the base of the skull.

The silence descended quickly thereafter. The blow had gone straight home, and the last flicker of waning life fled. Ben stood waiting to see if another blow was needed. Then the axe fell from his hands.

For a moment he stood as if dazed. But soon he remembered Fenris and walked unsteadily to his side.

The wolf, however, was already recovering from the blow. He had been merely stunned. Once more Ben turned to the mouth of the cavern.

Sobbing and white as the moonlight itself, Beatrice met him at the doorway.

PART THREE CHAPTER XIII

Fenris is Restless

Ben rose at daybreak, wonderfully refreshed by the night's sleep. His first work was to remove the skin of last night's invader—the huge grizzly that lay dead just outside the cavern opening.

The hour was already past ten; but Beatrice—worn out by the stress of the night before, did not wake until she heard the crack of her pistol. She lay a while, resting, watching through the cavern opening Ben's efforts to prepare breakfast.

Filling one of the two tin plates he stole into the cavern.

Falling into his mood the girl pretended to be asleep.

"Wake up, Beatrice," he commanded, with pretended gruffness. "It's after ten, and you've got to cook my breakfast."

She stirred, pretending difficulty in opening her eyes.

She opened her eyes to find him regarding her with boyish glee. Then—as a surprise—he proffered the filled plate.

The days passed quickly for Ben and Beatrice. They found plenty of work and even of play to pass the time.

With his axe and hunting knife Ben prepared a complete set of furniture for their little abode. And for more than a week, Beatrice was forbidden to enter a certain covert lest she should prematurely discover an even greater wonder than Ben was preparing for a surprise.

But one morning she missed the familiar sounds of his fire-building. Presently she heard him muttering and grunting as he moved some heavy object to the door of the cave.

She hurried into her outer garments, and in a moment appeared. It was a hammock, suspended on a stout frame, to take the place of her tree-bough bed on the cave floor. He had used the grizzly skin, hanging it with unbreakable sinew, and fashioning it in such a manner that folds of the hide could be turned over her on cold nights.

Reading the gratitude in her eyes, Ben's lips broke into a radiant smile.

"I guess you've forgotten what day it is," he said.

"Of course, I hardly know the month."

"We've notched each day," you know. And maybe you've forgotten—on the ride out from Snowy Gulch—we talked of birthdays. Today is yours."

He walked toward her, and her eyes could not leave his. He bent soberly, and brushed her lips with his own.

Lately Fenris had taken to wandering into the forest at night, and once his throat and jaws had been stained with dark blood.

"It's getting too tame for you here, old boy, isn't it?" Ben said to him one hushed, breathless night. "But wait just a little while more. It won't be tame then."

It was true; the hunting party, if they had started at once, must be nearing their death valley by now.

Matters reached a crisis between Fenris and himself one still, warm night in late July.

"Go ahead if you like," Ben told him. "God knows it's your destiny."

The wolf seemed to understand. With a glad bark he sped away and almost instantly vanished into the gloom.

But Fenris had not broken all ties with the cave. The chain was too strong for that. Fenris had joined his fellows, to be sure; but he still kept watch over the cave.

CHAPTER XIV

The Poison Plot

Beatrice had kept only an approximate track of the days; yet she knew that an attempt to rescue her must be almost at hand.

The wolf had gone now to join his fellows. She was not aware of his almost nightly return. Perhaps the fact of his absence gave her an opportunity to save her father from Ben's ambush.

The thought was with her, and she was desperate one long, warm afternoon as she searched for roots and berries in the forest. And all at once her hand reached toward a little vine of black berries, each with a green tuft at the end.

As if by instinct, hardly aware of the motion, she withdrew her hand. She knew this vine. It was the deadly nightshade, and a handful of the berries spell death. She started to look elsewhere.

But presently she paused, arrested by an idea so outrageous and yet so terrible that her heart seemed to pause in her breast.

Her father's life was in imminent danger. Another day might find him stretched lifeless before her. Ben had not hesitated to use every weapon in his power; she hesitated not to hesitate now.

Eagerly her fingers plucked the black berries.

In one of the tin cups Beatrice pressed the juice from the nightshade, obtaining perhaps a tablespoonful of black liquor. To this she added considerable sugar.

Then she concealed the cup in a cluster of vines, ready for the moment of need.

She hastened up the ridge to meet Ben on his way to the cave.

She waited a few minutes, then spying his stalwart form at the edge of the beaver meadow, she tripped down to meet him.

She walked to the door of the cave, procuring a handful of dried root leaves that she used for tea. Through the cavern opening she saw her drop them into the bucket that served as their teapot.

Then she came back for the oil, cloth bag that contained the last of their sugar. He began to eat his steak.

All that he had told her concerning his war with her father—could it have been that he had told the truth—that her father and his followers had been the attackers in the beginning?

But even as these thoughts came to her, she had walked boldly to the fire and emptied the contents of the cup into the boiling water in the teapot.

Then she took the pot off the fire and poured the hot contents into the cup that had just held the poison. She brought it steaming to Ben's side.

"It's pretty strong, I'm afraid," she told him. "The leaves weren't very good, and I boiled them too long. I'm afraid you'll find it bitter."

"I'll drink it if it's bitter as gall," he assured her.

His hand reached and seized the handle of the cup.

Then she seemed to writhe as in a convulsion. Her voice rose in a piercing scream. "Ben—Ben—don't drink it!" she cried. "God have mercy on my soul!"

She reached and knocked the cup from his hand, and its black contents, like dark blood, stained the sandy floor of the cavern.

"Never mind, Beatrice," the man was saying, his deep, rough voice gentle as a woman's. "Don't cry—just forget all about it. Let's go over to your hammock and rest awhile."

"But you don't understand—you don't know what I tried to do—"

His rugged face lighted as he smiled, kindly and tolerantly. But her solemn voice arrested him.

"Wait, Ben. I want you to know—so you won't trust me again. His hand reached and seized the handle of the cup.

The man looked at her, in infinitesimal compassion, then came and sat beside her in the hammock. Rather quietly he took one of her hands. Then he pressed it to his lips.

"You'd kiss my hand—after what I did?"

"After what you didn't do," he corrected.

They would need fuel in plenty to keep the fire bright tonight. Evidently rain was impending—one of those cold, steady downpours that are disliked so cordially.

He went a full two hundred yards before he found a tree to his liking. It was a tough spruce of medium height and just at the edge of the stream. He laid his rifle down, leaning it against a fallen log; then began his work.

His blows struck true from habit. Now the tree was half severed; it was time to cut on the opposite side. Suddenly his axe crashed into yielding, rotten wood.

Half of the tree had been rotten, changing the direction of its fall and crashing it down before its time.

Ben leaped for his life, instinctively aiming for the shelter of the log against which he had inclined his rifle; but the blow came too soon.

Ben's rifle, catching the full might of the blow, was broken like a match. Ben himself was crushed to earth as beneath a meteor. The rain clouds deepened and spread above his motionless form.

Beatrice's dreams were troubled after Ben's departure into the forest.

She opened her eyes; the cavern was deep with shadow.

She wondered why Ben did not come into the cave. Was he embittered against her, after all? Her uneasiness was swiftly developing into panic.

SEAL BEACH OIL WELL LOOKING VERY GOOD

SEAL BEACH, Dec. 29.—The discovery of oil at Seal Beach reads like a romance—the case of the prospector whose pick at the end of a long shaft strikes something shiny and finds the gold, the finding of the sack of gold at the end of the long trail, the running of the drill a few hours longer and drilling a few feet more hole.

At 4500 feet a showing was disclosed that makes the Seal Beach company's No. 1 look like an oil well and the possibility of opening up another big oil field for Southern California looms.

Last Friday night the Seal Beach Oil company's manager, William Templeman, decided to run a core barrel and find out if there were any showings of oil or an oil sand. The company's supply of drill pipe had been exhausted, it was impossible to secure any more for several weeks on account of the present shortage, and there was an anxiety to learn if there was any hope of oil, a showing that would warrant continuation of drilling. The core sample at 4500 was taken after midnight, and when brought up was examined only casually, as it did not show up very strong.

The discovery was made the following day, when Assistant Superintendent Francis decided to make some other tests. Samples were selected from the inside of the core and subjected to the ether, and they showed up as strong as any deep samples taken from a well could show. The sandy shale core sample, it is stated, carries a fine oil sand, while the ether brings out what looks like a high gravity oil.

While the Seal Beach Oil company is shut down waiting for a shipment of drill pipe to come around the Horn, the officials and stockholders are jubilant, with the prospects of an oil well. It was the plan to have an oil well by Christmas time or something that looked like it. The company officials declare they have something that looks like it now, and time will be marked until the arrival of the drill pipe so the drilling can proceed into the deep sand.

The Seal Beach Oil company was financed largely in the little town of Seal Beach. The drilling has been done in good time and there has been remarkable absence of fishing troubles and drilling difficulties.

The drilling of this wildcat well, it is declared, had not been shrouded in any mysteries and it has been possible at all times to get the depth of the well, the formation and the showings.

ROAD TO TALBERT IS TO BE OPENED AGAIN

TALBERT, Dec. 29.—Prospects for an open highway from Talbert to Santa Ana once more seems favorable, as operations are under way to complete the Talbert river bridge which has been closed so long.

The dredger is being used to fill in at each entrance to the bridge. The dredger works from the bridge, the sand being dipped up from the river bed. This work had proceeded to such an extent Tuesday that an occasional driver ventured to put his car to the test of crossing the steep incline and striking the sand dredger, which leaves but barely the room for a car to pass, and thus gains the other side.

The contractor who has the paving of the quarter-mile strip of boulevard on either side of the bridge has this work also under way. A 2400-pound hammer driven by machinery is at present breaking up the old boulevard at this point.

Dave Jesse enjoyed a fine Christmas dinner in Santa Ana at the home of his son, Will Jesse, who motored out to take him in for the day. A drive in the afternoon through a number of Santa Ana's new subdivisions was of interest to Mr. Jesse.

CITRUS ACREAGE INCREASES IN PAST YEAR

ANAHEIM, Dec. 29.—The increase in Valencia acreage in Orange county in 1922 has been exceptionally large as compared with other years, A. A. Brock, horticultural commissioner, said today. Not only is lemon and walnut acreage giving way to Valencia, Brock explained, but an appreciable amount of land hitherto used for garden truck is being so replaced.

The commissioner added that he knew of no district in the world that would compare with Orange county in suitability for Valencia culture. He said further that there was no danger of Valencia production being overdone.

Vacant land hitherto not cultivated is being opened to Valencia, he continued.

While lands containing appreciable amounts of alkali are utterly unsuited to Valencia, but adapted to garden truck, it is a mistaken idea, said Brock, to suppose that most of the land now used for vegetables cannot be converted to citrus culture.

Anaheim's gains in new acreage is not as large as that of certain other districts, because it has been pretty fully planted, already, he said.

ROAD TO TALBERT IS TO BE OPENED AGAIN

TALBERT, Dec. 29.—Prospects for an open highway from Talbert to Santa Ana once more seems favorable, as operations are under way to complete the Talbert river bridge which has been closed so long.

The dredger is being used to fill in at each entrance to the bridge. The dredger works from the bridge, the sand being dipped up from the river bed. This work had proceeded to such an extent Tuesday that an occasional driver ventured to put his car to the test of crossing the steep incline and striking the sand dredger, which leaves but barely the room for a car to pass, and thus gains the other side.

The contractor who has the paving of the quarter-mile strip of boulevard on either side of the bridge has this work also under way. A 2400-pound hammer driven by machinery is at present breaking up the old boulevard at this point.

EVENING SALUTATION

Five great intellectual professions have hitherto existed in every civilized nation; the soldier's, to fend it; the pastor's, to teach it; the physician's, to keep it in health; the lawyer's, to enforce justice; and the merchant's, to provide; and all these men, on due occasion, to die for it.

—John Ruskin.

IT IS OUR TURN NOW

If the San Bernardino Sun is correct in its editorial belief that congress will make no appropriations for post office buildings for several years to come, a number of cities in Southern California, including Santa Ana, are doomed to disappointment. The Sun does not believe appropriations will be easy to get because of the fact that the country is still paying for the war.

The Redlands Facts, however is arguing that a policy of construction of federal buildings is one that ought to be established and followed. The Facts points out that the post office today in addition to handling mail is also a savings bank and an express office.

"There is a place where in the career of a community it reaches a point in its growth where it is just as economical for the government to own the building which houses the post office and other governmental activities as it is for some private party to own it," says the Facts. Postmaster General Work in his message to congress declares that there are many cities in which it would pay the government to build.

While not admitting that appropriations are likely to be obtainable, the San Bernardino paper puts in its oar for San Bernardino, claiming that San Bernardino has first claim in the eleventh congressional district for an appropriation.

Says the Sun:

The old plan of public building bills was on the basis of one building to every congressional district in the country—a little "pork" for every congressman, and the rule was that the building went to the city without a building, whose postal receipts stood at the top of the list in the district. On that basis, San Bernardino has first call, and it was on that basis that a site was bought here 10 years ago. But we are not looking for any "pork barrel" building bill, at least until war taxes are somewhat reduced.

If Congressman Swing can pull out a building for San Bernardino and a site and building for each Redlands, Santa Ana, El Centro and Calexico and possibly for Ontario and Anaheim and one or two other ambitious towns we'll "hand it to him," but we cannot avoid calling attention to the fact that we put San Bernardino at the head of the list, if there's only one.

We aren't starting an argument, but we would like to say a word just here. If the city in the district that has the largest postal business to attend to is to get the first appropriation made in this district, the appropriation will not go to San Bernardino. It will go to Santa Ana.

We haven't the exact figures at hand, but in round figures Santa Ana's postal receipts for 1921 were between $8,000 and $10,000 greater than San Bernardino's, with Santa Ana's total at $84,000. This year Santa Ana has jumped to more than $101,000. We will have the exact figures within a few days, just as soon as December 31, 1922, passes by. The lead that we had over San Bernardino in 1921 has not been decreased. We rather think it has grown.

Santa Ana is now second city in the congressional district in its postal business. San Diego alone, we are confident, will show total postal receipts greater than ours, in the district. San Diego and Riverside are the only cities in the district that have federal post office buildings.

So, if there is to be any appropriation for federal buildings it should be remembered that we not only are in a receptive mood but also have the figures to show for it.

DEBT CANCELLATION

Bonar Law says England cannot pay America unless her debtors pay her. Or to put it another way, she cannot cancel what her war debtors owe her unless America cancels the English war debt.

The British premier may have meant it as an appeal to America to join in a general cancellation. In any event, however unwelcome the statement may be in some quarters, it is probably the truth.

England would be bearing an enormous load, if in addition to the war burdens she is carrying already, she undertook at the same time to pay the four or five billions charged against her on Uncle Sam's books and forego the collection of an equal amount lent by her to the Allies, not to mention the reparation due her from Germany. It would mean that Great Britain was assuming, alone, a war debt nearly as large as all the Allies together owe the United States. And all of it would have to come out of the pockets of the British people, already poor and heavily taxed as a result of the war.

This is not saying that England should not pay the United States. Neither is it saying that England should not cancel as much of her claims on her foreign debtors as she can. But it is evident that if there is going to be any debt cancellation at all, England will want the United States to take part of the loss. That is one of the problems that Washington is now preparing to tackle.

MODERN CROOKEDNESS

Styles in crookedness change as they do in clothes and houses. Years ago one used to hear a great deal about "green goods" fellows, gold brick artists, confidence men, shell game gangs, etc. Country people were specially subject in those days to the tricks of this tribe. "Uncle Reuben" on arriving at the city was apt to be greeted by some one who claimed to be a long lost friend, who got him into some scrape that separated Uncle from his roll and gave him simply experience in return.

It was amazing in those times how people would fall for counterfeit money schemes, or would lose their cash on simple betting and gambling games. A whole tribe of fellows commonly called "sharps" preyed on the public. They were smooth and plausible and they found plenty of suckers.

These fakes have been so frequently exposed, and the people that fell for them got so much laughed at, that it is not so easy to work them now. Newspaper reading is a great help in foiling these "smart guys," as the man who knows what is going on in the world is not good fruit for such deceptions.

The modern man with a crooked streak is not usually looking for this kind of a trick. He finds it more profitable to go into the business of selling fake, worthless, or highly speculative securities which on their face look promising to many folks.

Some of these schemes are plain frauds. Others were promoted honestly, but are so hazardous that ordinary people should never touch them. Unscrupulous men often get hold of such propositions and misrepresent them, and claim they are sure and safe and will pay enormous rates of interest. Far more money is being made by crooks in this way than was ever landed in the hazardous ways of the old confidence gangs. The easy mark crowd should realize that the same old gang of sharpers is after their money through more refined and up to date ways.

A FASHION PROPHECY

Styles for women in the coming year will be more beautiful than ever, with a tendency toward individualism in design to suit the wearer. Fresh, living colors will be worn, making women look young. Black will pass out of favor. Blue, green and light green will be preferred. Bobbed hair will recover from its present slight setback.

This is not, as might appear, the prophecy of a fashion expert. It represents a long look into Dame Future's looking glass by a famous Parisian soothsayer, Madame Fraya.

Mme. Fraya admits that she is generally consulted on love, money or the end of the world, but maintains that this does not in the least diminish her powers as a costume prophet extraordinary. Just to clinch matters with a practical illustration, she foretold that the price of silk stockings will fall.

This last item will bring cheer to many feminine hearts, but the seeress made another statement not so comforting. She says that styles among the wealthy, the fabrics used, and the jewels, will be so elegant and costly that "the middle classes will be obliged to renounce the following of the 'grande mode'." Elegance will thus become the prerogative of a small caste. There will exist again a kind of hierarchy in dress as in the middle ages.

Maybe the lady prophet is right with all her "dope." But about that "hierarchy" in dress—it may exist in Paris, but not in America, where the poorest little cash girl is a potential movie-queen, and can take two yards of silk, a pair of ten-cent earrings and fifty cents worth of hair and have Cleopatra backed off the map.

The grand lama of Tibet piques one's scientific curiosity by casually remarking that he's climbed Mount Everest with his astral body. Has he ever been to Mars or the Moon?

Dinosaur's Bones Found

Pasadena Star-News

The dinosaur which, in prehistoric times—in the Mesozoic age—roamed the wilds of Patagonia was about 140 feet long. Think of it, kiddies! How you would be frightened if there were such animals in the swamps and mountain fastnesses of California today! Some Argentine scientists have discovered thick bones of this monster diplotodus—the scientists' name for this great creature—which measure nine feet in length!

Nature is not extravagant. Gradually the good matter has eliminated the animals which were unduly large, unwieldy and a cumbersome to the earth. Modern animals are more adapted to the earth and its utilitarian development. The elephant—largest of land animals extant—can be employed as a faithful and useful servant of man. Nearly all the beasts of forest and jungle are useful, in their way. Nature, at least, is not wasting bone and muscle in fashioning their physical forms. They do not carry around surplus mountains of flesh and bones as the ancient dinosaurs did.

Nature does things well, but her work is never complete, never perfect. It proceeds from good to better, and all the time moving toward the best. This is true as to man, as well as the so-called lower animals.

Industry's Spiritual Side

Kansas City Star

It is not merely the economic side of life that absorbs the attention of Mr. Herbert Hoover in his new book, "American Individualism." Usually the competitive system of industry is treated from that standpoint alone. Only under the competitive system, it is pointed out, has it been possible to develop an industrial civilization capable of sustaining a large population.

Mr. Hoover recognizes the importance of this economic aspect. But to him the system has spiritual values as well. It is essential to the development of character. Men who are coddled do not ordinarily grow. The exceptional person may—Darwin, Andrew D. White, Roosevelt. But the average man needs to be thrown out to make his own way in the world in competition with others before he exerts himself to the utmost and so strengthens the qualities that are dormant within him. We are made so we need the incentive of struggle.

The competitive system furnishes the opportunity for producing a great race of individuals, as well as a high level of comfort in living.

Homes—and Homes

Boston Traveler

To say that orphaned children are the most fortunate would be to state the matter too strongly. But certain it is that some orphans have an advantage in that the right sort of homes are chosen for them by experienced and kindly supervisors of the asylums or other institutions that have undertaken responsibility for the child's well being.

The child who lives with his own parents is subject to whatever conditions happen to prevail in the particular home he has been born into. If he has been allotted wise and considerate parents, willing to create a helpful atmosphere, the child is, indeed, blessed. If he has drawn foolish, inconsiderate and selfish parents, he is far worse off than the orphaned waif, who is placed in a carefully selected home, there to be properly trained and nurtured.

It is a pity that every child cannot have a proper home, with his own mother and father. But, of the two classes of "orphans," those whose parents are dead and those whose parents are false to them, the former are not always the worse off.

Heard 'round the World

Points In Prosperity

A MILDEWED old document, dated 1689, is discovered in Poland. It describes the execution of a certain gentleman named Casimir Lyszynski. After death, his body was burned, his ashes put in a cannon and shot into the air toward Tartary. This happened in Warsaw, and was an event not unusual in those days.

Casimir's crime was denying the existence of God. Today he could deny it until he talked himself blue in the face. All intelligent people would pity him for his vanity, ignorance and stupidity. But no one would think of executing him. A few would argue—possibly convince him of the truth.

Compare then with now, and realize progress.

IT is only 133 years since counterfeiters were considered guilty of treason and often burned alive in England. The law was repealed in 1790.

A heart-rending instance was a little girl, only 14, sentenced to be burned at the stake in 1782. The House of Commons stormily debated her fate. When Sir William Meredith pardoned her, the fagots had been piled up for the fire.

She had been convicted of concealing counterfeiters' dies inside her corset, at the command of her employer.

EXECUTIONS for witchcraft were common in the old days, 3000 being "put away" in England during the Long Parliament.

As late as 1716 Mrs. Hicks and her nine-year-old daughter were hanged at Huntington for "selling their souls to the devil and raising a storm by pulling off their stockings and making a lather of soap."

The authority, Barrington, estimated that 30,000 were executed in England on witchcraft charges.

IT's a terrible past that we have come out of. We're not entirely out yet. Superstition and injustice still have their poisonous talons in humanity. But compare modern times with those old days, and no argument is needed that we're getting better.

Progress is certain, and the struggle is not hopeless.

It must have been Satan who invented the expression, "the good old days."

FRIENDS WITH LIFE

Give me green rafters and the quiet hills,
Where peace will mix a philter for my ills—
Rafters of cedar and of sycamore,
Where I can stretch out on the fragrant floor,
And see them peer—the softly stepping shapes—
By the still pool where hang the tart wild grapes.

There on the hills of summer let me lie
On the cool grass in friendship with the sky.
Let me lie there in love with earth and sun,
And wonder up at the lightfoot winds that run,
Stirring the delicate edges of the trees,
And shaking down a music of the seas.

Bring some old book—"The Roumain of the Rose,"
A song through which the wine of morning blows,
Let me stretch out at friends with life at last,
Forgetting all the clamors of the past—
The broken dream, the flying word unjust,
The failure, and the friendship gone to dust.

IN THE LONG AGO

From the Register Files

George E. Robinson was hit by an automobile as he turned, on his bicycle, on Fourth street. Though unconscious for a time, he was not badly hurt. The machine was driven by J. D. Thomas.

The gasoline motor on the Santa Ana-Orange line is out of commission, and the old "dummy" car has failed to make two trips today.

Officers of Sedgwick W. R. C., were entertained at the home of Mrs. Sarah Hemstock.

S. J. Jackman proposes that an advisory committee of twenty-five be established to work with the directors of the Santa Ana Valley Irrigation company.

John Lane, aged 77, father of Martin L. Lane, died last night. Father and son were in the furniture business together.

Members of the Ladies' Aid society of the Congregational church met in celebration of the birthdays of Mrs. Lydia Rowley, aged 83, and Mrs. Ellen A. Taylor, aged 82. These two are the oldest members of the society.

Capitalism

Russia comes reluctantly back to the fold. Two-fifths of its "big business" now is controlled by private capital, compared with 1 per cent last January.

That summarizes what happened in Russia in 1922.

Force of Vibrations

Minneapolis Journal

Again amateur radio communication records have been shattered. A man in Hartford, Connecticut, has been able to talk by radio to a man in the Hawaiian Islands, fifty-two hundred miles away, through a relay at Sleepy Eye, Minnesota, and has received an answer in four minutes.

What a difference four years makes! Then, Western Europe was a raging battlefield with tons and tons of high explosives being touched off daily. Did Paris hear the rumble of battle? Could London or New York hear the shriek or detonation of these engines of destruction on the Western Front? Hardly. Yet today an amateur picks up a broadcasting phone and speaks in it, and that tiny human voice is heard across a continent and even to distant isles. If anything can show what a new world the scientist is opening for us, this feat should. Yet almost of us are unconscious of the changes going on or the new conditions in life that impend.

The radio is the only device ever made by man that can carry across the world a sound created by a human being. Already it has pointed the course of science during the generation. Where, hitherto men have tried to harness the great forces of nature, such as tides and winds, to human use, they now realize, as Marconi, the inventor, puts it, that "the really great forces with which we may deal are locked up in vibrations so gentle we cannot feel them."

The nineteenth century has often been called the age of invention. The steam engine was the forerunner of a long series of devices that have materially added to our comfort and happiness.

Yet the twentieth century is doing things in the line of invention, too. It has reduced miles to minutes by the airplane; it has taken the vibrations of the human voice and propelled them almost instantaneously round the world. These two achievements will tend to the betterment of people everywhere.

WARBURTON'S VIEWS

945 W. Highland,

Santa Ana, Cal., Dec. 23, 1922.

Editor Register: I noticed in this morning's Los Angeles Times that next Tuesday afternoon at Egan's Little theater, Los Angeles, there will be held a public mass meeting in behalf of Roscoe Arbuckle, to which are invited to attend all the women's clubs, ministerial associations and other organizations. At that time these organizations and individuals will have the opportunity to engage in a fair discourse on the merits of whether or not Roscoe Arbuckle should return to his profession, and be allowed to earn a living at the only business he knows. A right, which I have always been told, was the principal right of an American citizen, and supposedly, the very keystone of the constitution of the United States. This meeting will be held under the auspices of Walter Hast, a noted picture producer.

Mr. Hast, in his announcement of the meeting, says, "that at that time he will demand to know by what right these ministers attempt to take the law into their own hands, after a man has been honorably acquitted of a charge by twelve of his fellow citizens."

At this time, I myself, as a father and husband and a business man, who is too busy to belong to any of the killjoy organizations, might ask, "by what right and authority have these ministers and women's clubs, etc., to say what myself and my family and thousands of other people like myself, shall go to see or not?" If they were fair, they would be willing to have Roscoe Arbuckle's pictures shown everywhere and wait to see whether people go to see them or not, which would be the real answer of the people as to the propriety of showing his pictures. But these people think that unless you belong to their particular organization, and think the way they do, that you have no rights, and no say in these matters. That is the reason that today the churches are having to drag people into them, by newspaper advertising, paid soloists, the theatrical-type preachers, moving pictures and other methods. These people are antagonizing a large percentage of the people who for a long time were merely intolerant of their methods.

If they will study the Bible, they profess to believe in, a little closer, they will find that this intolerant and condemning attitude toward a man when he down, is inconsistent with the teachings of the Bible.

The Good Shepherds

By Berton Braley

Once in a while a minister does something bad and sinister. And all the papers handle such a scandal.

For it's news! But, by and large, I urge—a man who has the job of clergyman. Is far too good and kindly for us blindly To abuse.

I say, in accents audible, most ministers are laudable; With faithfulness unswerving they are serving God and man; They play not to the gallery, but on a paltry salary.

They counsel, soothe, upbraid us, and they aid us. All they can. Their usefulness is various; they christen us and marry us. They help us face the morrow, after sorrow.

Lines the brow; They teach us faith and charity in want and in prosperity. Their hearts are warm and ample; their example Show us how!

Of all the greed and vanity of sad, confused humanity They show comprehension worth the mention.

Adventures of the Twins

Phil's Winter Rest

By Olive Roberts Barton

Phil Frog sat on the bank of Ripple Creek, coughing hoarsely. "Ker-chug! A hunk! Ker-chug! A hunk!" It sounded as though Phil should have some of his strings tightened like a fiddle that needs tuning up.

Nancy and Nick and Dusty Coat, the sandman fairy, appeared around a rock just then and came upon poor Phil, sitting there and looking yellow and wrinkled and faded, like a green apple that has fallen off the tree before it had a chance to get ripe, and begun to wither up.

"Ker-chung! A hu—" began Phil, when suddenly he spied his visitors. He stopped and blinked his eyes sleepily, and he grinned an empty sort of smile.

"Hello, Phil!" cried Nick, running up and dropping beside him. "Aren't you pretty cold?"

"Pretty!" nodded Phil. "Then why don't you go where it's warm?" said Nancy. "It's starting to snow and if North Wind keeps blowing, Ripple Creek will soon be frozen hard."

"I know," nodded Phil. "I don't mind the cold much, but I can't get anything to eat. The flies and mosquitoes are all gone, and I haven't anything to do but cough."

Dusty Coat lifted his bag of magic dust from his shoulder and set it on the ground.

"Well, well, well!" he said, pulling open the string. "I think I came just in time. You need a tonic, Phil, and I have the very thing! Can't you take a powder?"

"Can it it's insect powder," said Phil, making a weak little joke.

"All right then, lick this up," said Dusty Coat kindly. His powder was really "sleeping powder," you know.

Phil shot out his long tongue and did as he was told. "Ugh! It's no very good!" he complained. "But I feel better now." Phil's head dropped and he gave a loud snore. He was sound asleep.

Dusty Coat and the Twins put him to bed in some nice soft mud where the cold wind couldn't hurt him. "He'll sleep till spring!" said the fairy sandman with a wise wag of his head.
